FROM PRUSSIA.

MORE FRENCH PRISONERS ARRIVING.

BERLIN, August 11—Midnight.—A party of French wounded just in are all being forwarded to Spandau. To-day 2,235 French soldiers taken in Saturday's battle arrived here.

The First Prussian Corps d'Armee is at Phalsburg.

LOSS IN THE BATTLE OF WOERTH.

STUTTGART, August 12.—In the battle of Woerth the First Corps of the Wurtemberg Contingent lost six officers and twenty-three men killed, 237 wounded and 118 missing.

At Geisweiler the Wurtemberg troops captured one mitrailleuse, three cannon, one staff carriage of the Fourth Division, 2,200 prisoners, and 80 horses.

THE KING'S PROCLAMATION.

BERLIN, August 12.—A copy of the proclamation issued by King William, prepared in the French language, for distribution as the Prussian army advances into French territory, has been received here for publication.

THROUGH THE VOSGES—GEN. SHERIDAN—KIND TREATMENT OF FRENCH PRISONERS.

BERLIN, August 12.—The Bavarian army has passed through the Vosges and bivouacked last night at Dumeringen, near Saar Louis.

Gen. Sheridan, of the American army, has left for the King's head quarters.

The Queen announces she will take personal charge of the wounded of both nations, and their treatment will be identical. The French prisoners as they pass through the railroad stations receive nothing but kindness. The citizens and volunteers offer them refreshments, cigars, &c., and the ladies enter the cars, and going from man to man, offer them paper and pencil and volunteer to write to their friends for them.

BLOWN UP BY A TORPEDO.

BERLIN, August 12.—A small vessel which persisted in entering the Jahde in spite of warnings of danger, ran against a torpedo and was blown up. The crew was saved.

GEN. SHERIDAN WELL RECEIVED.

Before his departure for the seat of war, General Sheridan, accompanied by an adjutant, visited General Hokenfeldt, at the War office, where he was received with the attentions with which he has constantly been honored since his arrival in Germany.

[Cable Special to N. Y. Herald.]

RETALIATION—FRENCH VILLAGE TO BE BURNED FOR EVERY PLACE DESTROYED BY THE FRENCH FLEET.

BERLIN, August 12.—It is reported to-day that a proclamation is forthcoming which will declare that it is the intention of the Prussian forces to burn a French village for each place destroyed by French fleets in the bombardment of German ports.

FROM FRANCE.

MACMAHON'S REPORT TO THE EMPEROR.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The journals of Metz publish Marshal MacMahon's report to the Emperor. The report says the enemy, in greatly superior numbers, began the attack at seven o'clock on Saturday morning. The first attack having been repulsed, about noon the enemy reopened the contest, throwing forward numerous sharp shooters, protected by six guns in a commanding position. Masses of infantry were then brought up and at four o'clock in the afternoon McMahon was forced to order a retreat, which was effected in good order, the enemy's pursuit being without vigor and by no means troublesome. The Marshal was able to send only a partial list of killed and wounded.

THE SITUATION AT METZ THURSDAY.

A dispatch from Metz, August 11th, 8:15 P. M., says: "It has rained all day. The army is concentrated around this place. It is being revictualed and reinforced. The retreat of McMahon has been fully accomplished, in excellent order. Bazaine is engaged visiting and inspecting the troops under his command. The report that the Prussians occupy Nancy is false."

ENCOURAGING VOLUNTEERS.

A circular from the Minister of the Interior requesting the Prefects of the various departments to encourage the formation of companies of national guards, volunteers and Francs Tireurs to take the field at once. They will receive arms as soon as possible, but in the meantime they should assemble at the chief towns of the departments to organize and drill. They will be paid one franc per day from enlistment.

The Journal Officiel says the Ministers of War and Interior on assuming the control of departments immediately took the most energetic measures to ensure efficiency in the various branches of the service.

FROM ARMY HEADQUARTERS—A SIGNIFICANT DISCOVERY.

PARIS, August 12.—Advices from headquarters represent the best of understanding exists between Bazaine and the other generals.

Among the German prisoners taken at the beginning of the campaign are members of the Landwehr, who were called into service six weeks ago. This proves Prussia expected war before it was declared, and was not taken by surprise, as her Government asserted.

TROUBLE AT LYONS.

Workmen in the factories of Lyons threaten the German employes with violence, and trouble is apprehended.

PROMINENT MEN VOLUNTEERING.

Duruy, ex-Minister of Public Instruction, has joined the Garde Mobile, and M. Paul de Cassignac, editor of Le Pays, has entered a regiment of Zouaves.

PRUSSIA EXECRATED.

The Revue Des Deux Mondes, Orleanist, has a skilful article defending the attitude of France, and holding up Prussia to the execration of mankind.

A FEAR DISSIPATED.

The apprehension that famine would be added to the horrors of war, in consequence of the late drouth, has been dissipated. The Gaulois has reports from eighty-one departments which show that the wheat of 1870 will exceed the yearly average forty per cent.

DEMORALIZATION AND DISORDER AT CHALONS.

LONDON, August 12.—One of two special correspondents who left London Monday to replace two others who had been arrested, sends from Chalons, Wednesday, an account of the disorder and demoralization in the French army. He says:

As we entered Chalons it was dark and the rain was falling. The note of the drum was heard accompanying hoarse shouts of drunken conscripts. Everything was in confusion. After groping about in the mud I found an omnibus, and in it two gentlemen just returned from camp. They say the road is lined with stragglers and drunken soldiers belonging to the Garde Mobile. The latter are being drilled with the greatest dispatch. Only a small portion are armed. The remainder are exercised with sticks. The camp is full of wounded from the front. It is believed here Prussia has offered peace. No news is allowed to reach here from the front and constant suspicions are expressed. The wounds made by the Prussian guns are not severe, but the effects of the mitrailleurs are fearful. Numbers of men had both legs shot off and still live. Drunken conscripts and the Garde Mobile roar the "Marseillaise," but to my mind, in the drizzling rain and darkness of to-night, it has a fearfully dismal effect. I find that Canrobert went to Paris this afternoon but is expected to return. I shall push on to Nancy by the first train in the morning. I have not been asked for my passport since I was at Treguier. My only doubt is about being called on to serve in the army. Edmund About is a prisoner. At Texier he was missing with several other correspondents, and was supposed to have been killed.

The scenes of '93 are before my eyes, and we are only at the beginning of events.

The same correspondent writes, Thursday: I have not been able to get away. The trains go at noon. I saw again to-day my informant, referred to in my last letter, who proves to be Arsene Houssage. We go forward together. The disorder here is so great in every department that it completely turns my mind, so that I cannot collect or clear my ideas. The English papers often speak of mismanagement in the English army, but if these writers saw the state of things here they would think English management perfect. Now that every one is called to arms, it appears there are no arms to give them, and it is actually contemplated issuing to part of the Garde Mobile the old flint muskets. There are only fifteen Chassepots per company at this camp, and the rest are told to look on while the fifteen are taught the use of that arm. Canrobert's corps has been sent to Metz. He expects to join it from Paris.

NO COMMUNICATION WITH STRASBURG—PARIS ON THURSDAY—CORPS LEGISLATIF PROTECTED BY TROOPS—IRRITATION AGAINST THE EMPEROR.

[N. Y. Tribune Special.]

PARIS, August 12—Noon.—Communication with Strasbourg is interrupted. The Prussians are massed around the city.

The Emperor is at Metz.

Paris is tranquil, that is, no important disturbances have occurred, though turbulent groups continually form. The Corps Legislatif is still surrounded by troops, including four thousand regulars, cuirassiers and marines; supported by the Paris Guards and National Guard. No one is allowed to pass without a permit, and even members with difficulty make their way. Several have been stopped. It is difficult to understand why there are such precautions, unless it is intended to prevent a popular invasion of the Chamber as on the days of the Convention. Nevertheless crowds are gathered daily and the troops charge them. False alarms continually arise.

The irritation against the Emperor and the old administration increases daily. Never was there such a break down of the departments and ministers, which are in utter confusion. The new Cabinet has everything to reorganize. The deliberation on the formation of the new Ministry lasted the whole night and late the next morning. There were nineteen rejections before the list was finally complete.

INFORMATION WITHHELD—THE ARMY LOSSES.

Official information about the recent losses is still withheld and Paris is exasperated by the bad faith of the Government, which had promised to give all the news. While MacMahon admits a loss of 15,000 out of 18,000 men engaged, Frossard's losses at Saarbruck are wholly unknown. Instead of intelligence of war, the Government telegraphs from Metz that "showers fell last night."

Marshal Canrobert arrived in Paris Thursday to replace Baraguay D'Hilliers, who goes to Tours. General Trochu takes Canrobert's Corps. Trochu was offered the Ministry of War, but refused, unless called to power by the Corps Legislatif.

ORLEANS PRINCES.

The Secretary of the Count of Paris denies that the Orleans Princes are in Paris.

FROM LONDON.

ENGLISH BANKER SHOT AS A SPY.

LONDON, August 12.—An English banker named Elliott was yesterday arrested at Paris, while on a visit to his brother, charged with furnishing intelligence of the French army movements to the enemy. He was taken to the camp at Chalons, court-martialed and shot as a spy during the evening.

ROUGH TREATMENT OF CORRESPONDENTS—THEY ARE SUSPECTED AS PRUSSIAN SPIES.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune at Metz says that he was arrested at that place on Sunday, together with Simpson, of the London Illustrated News, and Henry Mayhew, as Prussian spies, and mobbed by the town people, and it was with great difficulty that they were protected by the soldiers. They were repeatedly examined by the military authorities, released and re-arrested, their papers taken away, and they were finally carried before General Coffiniers, commanding in Metz, who threatened them with death. After some delay they were again released and ordered to leave Metz instantly and quit France either by Cologne or Dijon. They chose the latter. He writes again from Dijon that he is under charge of a guard, but was allowed to stop one night in Dijon, and would proceed the next day to Italy.

All France must have gone mad about Prussian spies, as the New York Tribune's special correspondent, journeying from London to the front by the way of Amiens, Reims and Chalons, says he was stopped at a little place called Tergnier and questioned by the Custom House officers and gens d'armes. He was asked repeatedly to produce his papers, but was finally allowed, most reluctantly, to proceed, when they were found to be all right. Yet this correspondent is a French officer. After his examination was concluded, the authorities apologized for the trouble caused him, but said they were compelled to question everybody, so great was popular suspicion.

A special correspondent writes from Paris, Wednesday evening, as follows: Extraordinary precautions were taken to-day to protect the Corps Legislatif. Besides the infantry and cavalry, two batteries of artillery were in position. Seventy-nine of the Deputies voted in favor of the immediate discussion of the proposal to increase the National Guard, and one hundred and seventy for its postponement.

THE FINANCIAL CRISIS IN PARIS.

The forced currency of bank notes is practically established, for a 100 franc note cannot be changed without paying a premium.

The bank of France still professes to pay in specie, but give only silver for notes. The run on the bank to-day was very severe. Some persons were compelled to wait five hours for their turn. Seven millions in specie were paid out yesterday and to-day.

SUMMARY OF REPORTS.

Private letters say McMahon's treasure chest, containing 1,500,000 francs in gold, was captured by the Prussians.

Mr. Russell writes to the Times that the French headquarters were wholly ignorant of the details of the battle of Woerth, but were impressed with the belief that it was decisive and important in its results.

The Paris Pays publishes a letter from Charles Desmonties, dated Nancy, denouncing the Emperor's bad generalship. He says McMahon, gallantly struggling, was beaten for lack of support, though there were multitudes of armed Frenchmen at hand eager to save him.

The passage of the Rhine was undefended.

The Prussian accounts says nothing but the battle of Koeniggratz could parallel the destruction of life at Woerth. The same accounts say it is believed that Napoleon was on the field with Gen. MacMahon.

The London Telegraph is authorized to contradict formally the report that the Prince Imperial is in London.

Marshal MacMahon marched out of Severne on Sunday night at one end of the town just as the Prussians were marching in at the other.

The London Times says: The pride of France is wounded and her prestige dimmed and he who brought it on her must suffer for it. Victorious or disrowned is Napoleon's alternative in the next battle field.

The Duke of Chartres has asked permission to take service in the French army. He claims this privilege as a Frenchman, who has learned something of the art or war in America and Italy.

The Paris Siecle estimates the strength of the French army at Metz at one hundred and thirty thousand men. The same paper says the withdrawal of the French army to the lines of the Menz or Marne is confirmed by parties coming from the front.

The Journal Officiel publishes a decree declaring the department of Haute Garonne in a state of siege.

WHEREABOUTS OF THE EMPRESS AND PRINCE IMPERIAL.

The nieces of the Empress have left Paris.

The Echo asserts, without qualification, that the Empress Eugenie and Prince Imperial are in lodgings at St. Johns Wood. The Weekly Register has the same report, which, however, it gives with the caution to its readers not to place too much confidence in its correctness.

NAPOLEON'S DANGER AND HIS COURSE.

The Examiner says Napoleon adopts the course most worthy of his name and of the gravity of the situation. Roused from indolent indecision by a stunning blow, he attains to the greatness of the situation in the presence of peril unspeakable to himself, his family and the proud nation which so lately re-invested him with kingly power. Laying aside conventionalities he tells France her danger and exhorts her to the rescue, not for his sake, but for her own.

STRASBURG CERTAINLY INVESTED—NAPOLEON AT THE BATTLE OF WOERTH.

LONDON, August 12.—The investment of Strasburg by German troops is confirmed.

The presence of Napoleon at the battle of Woerth is positively reaffirmed.

PREPONDERANCE OF THE PRUSSIANS OVER THE FRENCH—DISPARITY IN LOSSES.

It is said the Prussians largely outnumbered the French in every engagement. The French claim that at Weissenburg 8,000 men checked 80,000 Germans with 120 guns for four hours, the former losing 4,000 men, while the enemy lost 10,000. They also assert that McMahon, at Froschweiler, had only 40,000 men against 150,000 Germans, yet the French only yielded when 100,000 more Germans were hurled upon them.

The Crown Prince promises the release of all newspaper correspondents taken prisoners on the field.

Prince D'Auvergne is about to return to France but the Patrie says he has declined the Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Silver is declining as the demand from the Continent ceases.

THE OPPOSING FORCES.

LONDON, August 12.—The German forces between Rastadt and Cologne are said to aggregate 750,000 men. According to the Paris Siecle 250,000 soldiers are now at Lorraine.

STILL ANOTHER SECRET TREATY.

LONDON, August 12.—The Cologne Gazette prints the outlines of another treaty proposed by Count Benedetti to Bismarck in 1866. It stipulates that France shall take possession again of the territory acquired by Prussia in 1814, Prussia supporting France in the recovery of the left bank of Rhine from Hesse and Bavaria, and that the guarantee given by the German Confederation in favor of the neutrality of Luxemburg and Netherlands shall be annulled.

The Gazette adds that Benedetti represented that these proposals emanated from the Emperor at Vichy in 1866.

DETAILS OF THE RECENT DEFEATS.

LONDON, August 12.—Our special correspondent from Paris Thursday writes: Scraps of news about the recent defeats are permitted to be printed. At Reichoffen the soldiers had no cartridges left. They had been without any for an hour, and had made repeated bayonet charges. The Prussians mowed them down in masses. Ammunition was on the way, but conveying it by rail was stopped at the station nearest the battle field by the explosion of bombs from the Prussians. Prussian spies had signalled the train to their friends.

THE PRUSSIAN ADVANCE AND THEIR DESIGNS.

The Prussian armies are reported penetrating France in three great divisions by way of Forbach or Metz, by Weissenberg and by Muhlhausen. They evidently intend crossing the Vosges and making for Nancy. The first thing the Prussians did was to cut all the telegraph lines and the railway between Strasburg and Staverne. Saverne is the key of the Vosges, and if the Prussians are really there, as there seems to be no doubt, the Eastern gateway of France is thrown wide open. Saarbruck is of course abandoned.

THE FRENCH ARMY FURIOUS.

The French soldiers and officers are furious at want of organization. On the 6th instant no coffee was distributed until six o'clock at night. The soldiers fought fasting, and after the battle there was no distribution of food for four days. The soldiers lived upon potatoes gathered from neighboring fields.

ROME.

WHAT THE POPE WILL DO.

A special dispatch to the New York Herald says: A letter from Rome on the 8th says the Pope declares, in case of the hostile occupation of any portion of the Pontifical territory, he will leave the Papal dominions. He will probably go to Malta.

Other Cable Dispatches.

GREAT BRITAIN.

NEWS SUMMARY.

LONDON, August 12.—A Berlin correspondent of the Times writes that England has declined to join with Austria in a league proposed by Von Beust for guaranteeing the belligerents against loss of territory. England's reason for declining is, that the league could not save the North German Confederacy in case Prussia should be defeated.

The £300,000 pounds in bullion shipped from Bombay to London is on account of the abnormal condition of exchanges brought about by the war.

The Orange anniversary is passing quietly at Enniskillen, where trouble was feared.

The Times city article ascribes the reaction in stocks to the approach of the half monthly settlement and absence of decisive news.

The text of the naturalization treaty with the United States is published.

Reception of Archbishop Purcell at Cincinnati Yesterday.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, August 12.—Archbishop Purcell reached home at six forty this evening, on the Erie railway. The reception given him was most flattering. Men, women and children flocked to the depot and so blocked up the surrounding streets that it was with difficulty he was conducted to the carriage. The reception speech was made by C. W. Murphy, Esq. At the conclusion the Archbishop bowed to the speaker and great audience, but made no reply. Nearly all the Catholic Societies of Cincinnati and vicinity participated in the procession that conducted him to the cathedral. The latter formed in open order, while the Archbishop and guard of honor passed between. Bands of music stationed at intervals commenced playing as the cortege arrived. The streets through which the procession passed were densely packed with people who cheered and waived handkerchiefs. The Archbishop was not advised that a public reception was to be tendered until his arrival here.

A Serious Collision at New York—Eight Lives Lost.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, August 12.—As the steamer Norwalk was rapidly steaming from Coney Island to the city to-night, with one thousand passengers, she collided with a sloop. The shock was extremely great, shaking the steamer from stem to stern and causing a frightful panic among the passengers. Several were knocked into the water, among them two children, who fell from their mothers' arms. It is supposed at least eight lives were lost, but neither the names nor number lost can be ascertained to-night. A tug boat hurried to the rescue but picked up only two men. The Norwalk was found to be seriously damaged. Her wheel house was carried away and a large hole made in her side, through which the water was pouring into the hold. The tug took her in tow and reached the Atlantic dock, Brooklyn, just in time to discharge all the passengers before the steamer went down.

An Indian Fight—Memorandum Book of Gold Hunters Found.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HELENA, N. T., Aug. 12.—The Sioux and Crows had a fight a short time ago, between Big Horn and Little Horn rivers. A diary was found on the body of a dead Sioux, containing the following entry: "Wednesday, August 14, 1867.—T. H. Mann and party en route for Big Horn, hope if anything happens to the party and this diary be found it will be sent to Helena. T. H. Mann, Weston and Son." Another part of the diary contains, under date March 5th, 1867, an entry of twenty-eight names, gives the route traveled up to August 22d, 1867, after which the book must have fallen into the hands of the Sioux. There are about thirty illustrations by Indians, recording the killing of whites, running off of stock, both horses and mules; two of the illustrations are mules represented attached to wagons.

Serious Fire at Chicago.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHICAGO, August 12.—At eight o'clock this evening a fire was discovered in the extensive paint, oil and glass store of Heath & Milligan, No. 170 and 172 Randolph street. Such progress had the flames made when discovered, that it was found impossible to arrest them, and the entire building, with contents, was destroyed. The loss of Heath & Milligan is about $270,000, with an insurance for $100,000. The building was a five story brick, forty-eight by one hundred and sixty feet, was valued at $35,000 and insured for $20,000. There were over four thousand tons of lead in the building.

Upper Rivers.

[By P. & A. Telegraph.]

GREENSBORO, August 12.—River stationary, with about 2 feet water in the channel. Weather clear. Thermometer 72 at 4 P. M.

BROWNSVILLE, August 12.—River stationary, with 4 feet water in the channel. Weather cloudy. Thermometer 67 at 4 P. M.

OIL CITY, August 12.—River rising slowly, with 21 inches water in the channel. Weather cloudy. Thermometer 82 at 6 P. M.

Nebraska Republican Nominations.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

OMAHA, August 12.—The delegates to the Republican State Convention have returned from Lincoln. The following were the nominations: David Butler, Governor; W. H. James, Secretary of State; Henry A. Koenig, Treasurer; Jno. Taffe, member of Congress. A platform was adopted endorsing Grant's administration and sympathizing with Germany in the struggle against the French.

Admiral Farragut Gradually Sinking.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., August 12.—Admiral Farragut is still alive but gradually becoming weaker.

Evening—It is thought Farragut is dying.

—During the President's visit to the Merchants' Exchange at St. Louis, yesterday, Mayor Cole presented to him, on behalf of the Irish and American citizens, a petition for the pardon of General O'Neil and other Fenians now in prison for a violation of the neutrality laws. The President received the petition and said he would give it consideration. The appeal was signed by a large number of prominent American as well as Irish citizens.

THE CAPITAL.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12, 1870.

An official report to the War Department says the Sioux are all collecting for a grand council. Red Cloud is excercising a very beneficial influence among them and hopes to persuade the Chevennes and Arrapahoes to keep the peace.

ADDRESS FROM ATTORNEY GENERAL AKERMAN.

A large audience listened to an address at Lincoln Hall to-night from Attorney General Akerman, upon the war and reconstruction. The meeting was under the auspices of the Southern Republican Association of Washington. In its course he said that with the exception of a few outrages of unusual character perpetrated by certain lawless parties, there are few portions of the world where the masses of the people live in greater comfort, and in general better condition, than in the Southern States. His address was mainly of a political nature.

GEORGIA RECONSTRUCTION.

Attorney General Akerman has written an elaborate letter on the subjeect of Georgia's reconstruction. He declines to give an opinion upon the late act passed by Congress, through motives of professional etiquette, but holds that the present State Constitution is the legal one, that it provides for an election of half the Legislature during the present year, and therefore such an election must be held.

THE WEST POINT INQUIRY.

It appears the Court of Inquiry on the complaint of the colored cadet at West Point reported his published statement incorrect, and that he had been treated by the authorities with the same consideration as other scholars, and recommended that both he and the white cadet, Gilmore, be court-martialed. Secretary Belknap disposed of the case by ordering that both be reprimanded, but assured the cadets that offenders in future would be dealt with summarily.

THREE PROMINENT FRENCHMEN.

THE NEW FRENCH PREMIER.

Charles Guillaume-Marie-Apollinaire-Antoine Cousin-Montaban, Count of Palikao, General and Senator, born June 24th, 1796 went into Algeria at an early age, distinguished himself as officer of cavalry and was, after more than twenty years of uninterrupted service, entrusted with the command of the Tlemcen Division, and finally with that of Constantine. Recalled to France he was for some time at the head of the Twenty-first Military Division. In 1860 he took command of the French expedition into China, and had the honor of accomplishing the almost marvellous invasion which carried the flags of France and England to the capital of that vast Empire. The destruction of numerous Chinese forts, the splendid victory at Palikao, and the entrance of the Allies into Pekin, forced the Chinese Government to accept of a treaty imposed by the Allies. Returning to France in July 1861, he was made Senator of France, Count of Palikao, and commander of the Fourth Army Corps. In 1869 he had been 42 years in active service, and had fought in 28 different battles. It is this distinguished soldier to whose hands the leadership of the French Ministry has been entrusted since the overthrow of the Olivier Ministry, on Tuesday last.

BARON JEROME DAVID.

Baron Jerome David was born at Rome on the 30th of June, 1823. He is grandson to the great painter of the Revolution—the Empire. His baptismal name was in honor of his godfather, Jerome Bonaparte, King of Westphalia. He was first educated for the naval service, but subsequently studied for the army at the military school of Saint Cyr. He got his commission and served with the army in Algeria. He filled several administrative positions of importance in Algeria, and served in the Crimean war on the staff of Prince Napoleon. After the war he retired from the army. In 1859 he was elected Deputy for the Gironde, and was returned again in 1863 and 1869 by large majorities. He served as secretary in the bureau of the Chamber, and subsequently was appointed the president of the legislative body in the session of 1867, 1868, and 1869. He was an active debater, and took special interest in Algerian affairs, free trade, and foreign questions. He has been always strongly conservative, and his renomination as president in June, 1869, led to the retirement of M. Schneider.

GENERAL TROCHU.

"Trochu has the triple talent of writing, talking and fighting," so said Marshal Bugeaud, a good judge of men, and especially of soldiers. In the flying rumors which come to us laden with facts and theories, possible and impossible, Trochu's name is associated with the possibility of dictatorship. The English military critics have long known Trochu as one of the strong intellects of the French army—inferior to none in the Crimea, save, perhaps, only to Todtleben. We have already given some account of his soldierly qualities. In personal appearance he is described as being of middle size, elegant in figure, but strong and sinewy. He has a pleasing countenance, full of intelligence, and his address is almost quick, warm. He has a broad, thoughtful forehead, slightly bald; small eyes, but so brilliant and sparkling that they constitute a remarkable feature. His hand is nervous but small, and his whole aspect is that of a soldier. There is such absence of pretension that one is not obliged always to address him as M. le General. His army predilections have not hardened his heart though it may have given him stronger views of duty. His brother having died and left nine children unprovided for Trochu took charge of them, and for their sakes remained a single man. He is not a man of extended popularity, but his merits are known to the judicious few, and by them set at an exceedingly high value.

The French Army.

The following is an official list of the composition of the French army on the Rhine, under MacMahon; before the great baltle at Hagenau: Commander-in-Chief of the First Corps or Army of the Rhine, Marshal MacMahon; Chief of Staff, Gen. Colson; First Division, General Ducrot commanding, is composed of the First Brigade, commanded by General de Portes—Thirteenth Chasseurs a Pied, Eighteenth Regiment of the line, Ninety-sixth Regiment of the line; total, 7 battalions, or 4800 men. Second brigade, commanded by Gen. Houlber—Forty-fifth of the line, 2000; Seventy-fourth of the line, 2000. Total of First division, 8800 men. Second division, commanded by General Donay, is composed of First brigade, commanded by General Montmarie—Sixteenth Chasseurs, Fiftieth of the line, Seventy-eighth of the line. Total, seven battalions, or 4600. Second Brigade, commanded by General Pelli — First Regiment of Zouaves, 2,000; First of African riflemen or Turcos, 2,000. Total of Second division, 8,600. Third division, commanded by General Raoul, composed of First brigade, commanded by General Sheflle—Eighth chasseurs, Thirty sixth of the line, Forty-eigth of the line. Total, seven battalions, or 4,700. Second brigade, commanded by General Lefevre—Second regiment of Zouaves, Second regiment of African riflemen or Turcos. Total, six battalions, or 4,000. Total of Third division, 8,700 men. Fourth division, commanded by General Lartique, composed of First brigade, commanded by General Fraboult—First chasseurs, Fifty-sixth of the line, Eighty seventh of the line. Total, seven battalions, 4,600. Second Brigade, commanded by General Lacratelle—Third Zouaves, Third regiment of African riflemen or Turcos. Total, six battalions, or 4,000. Total of fourth division, 86,000 men.

The following is a resume of the force:

| | Men. |
|---|---|
| First division | 8,800 |
| Second division | 8,600 |
| Third division | 8,700 |
| Fourth division | 8,600 |
| Total infantry of First Corps d'Arme | 34,700 |

The cavalry with the corps consists of one division, commanded by General Pirherme, and composed of three brigades; one of the light cavalry, one of cavalry of the line, one of heavy cavalry. First brigade—Third hussars, eleventh chasseurs a cheval, in all 4,000 light infantry, all mounted upon Arab stallions, brought from Algeria, commanded by General de Septeuil. Second brigade—Second and third lancers, in all 4,500 cavalry of the line, mounted upon tall but strong Norman horses, commanded by General de Nasisouty. Third brigade—Eigth and ninth cuirassiers, in all 4,400 heavy cavalry, mounted upon very large, heavy horses, commanded by General Michael. The whole cavalry of the army thus amounting to 12,900 men and horses.

The artillery consists of eight batteries of field guns and four of mitrailleuses, the number of men being about 4,000 in all. Thus the corps d'arme actually under Marshal MacMahon consists of 34,700 infantry, 12,900 cavalry, 4,000 artillery, making a total of 51,000 men.

To the above may be added the engineers, pontooneers, working corps, hospital corps, police of the army, and other non-combatant corps, making up the whole to at least 60,000 men.

A CARGO OF PETROLEUM ON A BURNING VESSEL SAVED BY A FLOATING FIRE ENGINE.—The North German bark Argonaut was set on fire on the first instant, while anchored off Brimstone Point, by the burning ferry boat James Watts, as previously reported in the Times, was yesterday discharged of her cargo, consisting of four thousand seven hundred and eighty barrels of petroleum oil, every barrel of which was saved through the agency of the powerful steam pumps of the fire-steamer John Fuller, although the bark, when the Fuller reached her, was enveloped in flames from stem to stern and found abandoned. The captain and crew of the Fuller deserve great credit for voluntarily exposing themselves and the property in their charge, for, although warned of the fact that the bark was loaded with petroleum oil, they went at once to work, and by their exertions not only was this cargo saved but the fire was prevented from extending to several other vessels, oil-laden near by.—Times.

ACCORDING to Professor Zantesdeschi, the Atlantic submarine cable may be considered as a Leyden jar, in which, when the inner insulated wires are carrying a message from America to Europe, those forming the outer-layer should reconvey it from Europe to America. He therefore suggests that instruments be established at each end of the cable, by which the sender of the message can ascertain by indications at his elbow whether his dispatch has been received at the opposite extremity as he transmitted it.

IN the church system in Norway there is a very wise arrangement, whereby a clergyman past work may retire with a superannuation, which is charged against the income of his successor. There is also a widow's farm attached to each glebe, so that, on the death of a rector, his wife is not (as in the English Church) driven from her old home without any place of shelter. These wise provisions tend to prevent the scandal too often seen in other churches, of ministers clinging to their post long after the power to perform their duties has ceased.

SPEAKING of poor Prevost-Paradol, a Paris correspondent says he leaves three children entirely destitute. He was fondly attached to them, and nothing but madness could have induced him to leave them penniless and unprotected. Besides he was not at all a desponding or low spirited man. He had just attained to the height of his ambition, for he had long desired and solicited the elevated diplomatic post, which Count Daru at first objected to give him on account of there being several unemployed ministers plenipotentiary. It is said that a subscription will be opened for his family.

THE North German Correspondant contains the following: A number of military officers in other European States have expressed their wish to enter the North-German army for the duration of the war. This is, certainly, very gratifying to our feelings, but former experience obliges us to decline their well meant offers. Our cadres are quite complete, and there would be difficulty in procuring additional accommodation and forage. The attention of our officers would also be divided between their military duties and the desire to make their new comrades comfortable, and give the necesary information. In short, the difficulties are insuperable. Our German princes themselves, when they join the standards, have to dispense with the polite attentions to which they are accustomed, even during military manoeuvers, but which would be out of the question when an army takes the field.

A LETTER from Foochow says they are exhibiting a Chinese criminal in a wooden cage, where he will stand until his death. He is about twenty years of age. His crime is kidnapping children. He stands in the cage with his head through a hole in the top, his toes barely touching the flooring. Thousands gather around him every day, laughing and jeering at him; there he stands with his ankles chained together, and his hands tied behind him. Some one had put a few bits of broken bricks in the cage, and at times he would try, by standing tip-toes on one foot, to bring the broken bricks together with the other, as he could raise himself up a little, and ease the weight from his neck. He made rather poor work of it, as he could not see the pieces, and had to direct his movements by the sense of touch only. His sufferings must be great, as he has been standing more than seventy hours. Another man that was caged up the same way, lived about six days.

THE French papers state that the Emir Abd-el-Kader has addressed the following letter to the Minister of War: "Praise be to God. To the very valiant Marshal of France, Minister of War: Excellency—We have learnt by the voice of fame that France is about to make her powder speak against her enemies, the Prussians (whom may God confound,) and that your very powerful Emperor Napoleon III. (upon whom may Heaven shower its bounties) has determined to place in the front ranks of his brave soldiers the sons of French Africa. He who has fought against the French would be the last of believers if he did not in this coming war place himself at the service of his adopted country; his tried sabre claims the honor of being among the first to march against the Prussians. The Emir Abd-el-Kader, therefore, begs your Excellency to lay his humble petition at the foot of the glorious throne of Napoleon III. (to whom may God grant victory.) From the servant of God, Abd-el-Kader, Ben Mahi Edden Broussa, 6 Radia et Isani of the year of the Hegira, 1827."

THE Bund lately said:—"A difference between Napoleon, Prim and the Prince of Hohenzollern does not seem to have arisen until the two latter showed their disinclination for a marriage, proposed by the Empress Eugenie, between Frederick, the young Prince of Hohenzollern, and her niece, Mademoiselle d'Alba. The North German Gazette, in speaking of this matter, adds: "We learn from a good source that the news brought by a French paper last April of a marriage between Frederick, Prince of Hohenzollern, and the daughter of the Duke of Alba was a feeler put forth by the Tuileries. At Madrid no inclination was felt for the match, because the idea of the Countess of Montijo becoming the grandmother-in-law of the future Kings of Spain would have excited in the highest degree the patriotic and moral indignation of the nation. The Duke of Alba is deeply in debt; he lives on a pension paid him by his eldest son, and he is anything but generally respected. We cannot tell whether the chosen bridegroom had any wish for the marriage, but we greatly doubt it."

A LETTER from Strasbourg says: "I have just met an artist attached to one of the illustrated papers. 'Will you come with me?' he said; 'I am about to sketch a young American lady who has come here to nurse our wounded.'" I followed him to the hotel, where we found her. She was young, pretty, and according to report, rich; certainly an amiable nurse to distract the attention of her patients. For some of these ladies, particularly for this American to whom I refer, the idea of the picturesque has had something to do with their determination. The latter is not averse to have her portrait published, and she dressed for that purpose in a costume which reminds one more of an Amazon than an attendant upon the sick, a gray felt hat with a white feather; a black tunic, confined at the waist by a belt in varnished leather, with a silver buckle; loose black trousers, fastened just below the knee; and Hessian boots with white spurs. It must be allowed that this costume would do capitally for the Opera Comique. She has also three horses, one for herself, another to carry the medicines, and the third for her servant.

The Atmospheric Telegraph Designed to Rival the Electric.

[From the London Telegraph.]

A novel kind of telegraph, the invention of Signor Guattari, an Italian, was submitted to the inspection of a party of scientific gentlemen yesterday, at a private house in Gloucester street, Warwick square:

The inventor aims at obtaining by the use of atmospheric power the same or better results than those attained by electric and magnetic forces. To this end he charges a reservoir with compressed air, and by the operation of valves, worked in the same manner as those in use in the ordinary telegraph system, sends pulsations through a tube, which pulsations are made to work upon the receiving instrument with an effect corresponding with that of the electric current passed along insulated wires. The invention has been so fully recognized by the Royal Institution of Naples that they have paid to Signor Guattari the rare compliment of awarding him a gold medal.

At the experiments yesterday there were present the Italian Ambassador, Count Maffoi, a gentleman from the engineering department of the Postal Telegraph, a representative from the Kensington Art Department, and contributors to scientific journals and the general press. The working apparatus was all contained in a stand or table about eight feet long by five feet wide and four feet deep. Air pumps, worked by a crank, are used to charge the reservoir. The amount of pressure is shown on a dial.

The telegraphic instrument is worked by hand in the ordinary way. A very considerable coil of gutta percha tubing, half an inch in diameter, and said to be about a mile in length, was connected with the instrument at the battery, and with two other instruments in the room. The experiments began by the charging of the reservoir to about one-sixteenth of its actual capability—this being, at the same time, a comparatively rude, though not unsightly machine. The method adopted for the working of the Guattari is the Morse or printing cipher system.

Signor Guattari, at the transmitting end, sent through this message: "This apparatus has already experimented on the plebiscite." The words were recorded in cipher at the receiving end, and were read off by the gentleman from the post office, who remarked, however, that in two or more instances the letters had run into each other. The same authority found the valve at the transmitting end difficult to work, and required a manual pressure of something like seven pounds instead of the mere touch required by the regular Morse instruments.

In operating on it himself he sent through the alphabet correctly, and transmitted all the messages he attempted, with accuracy. This was done through a line of tubing partly wound round a drum and partly lying in an irregular heap on the floor. In actual service lead tubes might be used.

It is further reported that the system is to be generally adopted on board the Italian ships of war for the transmission of orders from the commanding officer to subordinate departments.

Experiments were next tried on the apparatus for communicating with various parts of a ship, and subsequently with what might be called the domestic telegraph. In this case Signor Guattari dispensed with the use of the reservoir, and by mere manipulation of an air ball at the end of a tube, recorded true cypher characters on the long strip of paper which runs over the small wheels of the receiving machine. This is the kind of telegraphy to which the Guattari apparatus will probably prove to be best adapted.

In large hotels, in ships of war, in communication from factories to counting houses, from private residences to places of business, and in town communication generally, the system promises to be advantageous. It is independent of foreign aid, is less likely to get out of order than wires conducting electric currents, and will not be more expensive. For longer distances, on regular public lines, the invention would probably not apply so well, or work so rapidly, as the present telegraphs.

The inventor is, however, equally sanguine in this as in smaller branches, and claims, not without reason, that his apparatus will be less expensive than electric batteries, and will be less subject to the influence of those atmospheric storms which sometimes put the telegraphic system of a whole country out of order.

Signor Guattari was heartily congratulated on the performance of his apparatus. The new telegraph certainly reflects high honor on the inventive genius of its originator.

The New Commander-in-Chief of the French Army.

Marshal Francois Achille Bazaine, the new Commander-in-Chief of the French army, has the reputation of being the best handler of troops in that service. He is the descendant of a family of soldiers, and is now 61 years of age. He rose from the ranks, and in five years from his enlistment gained his sub-lieutenancy and his cross on the field of battle. In 1837 he was sent to Spain with the legion, and when the war of succession closed he went back to Algeria, where he was in the expeditions against Milianah, Cabylia and Morocco. For several years he had the superindentship of Arab affairs in the province of Tiemcen. In 1855, being at the head of the first regiment of the foreign legion, he was appointed to the command of the infantry brigade formed from this legion. He performed valuable service with his men at the siege of Sebastopol, and in particular co-operated in the reduction of Kinburn, one of the outposts of the great fortress. After the retreat of the Russians he was governor of Sebastopol until its final evacuation by the allies. Marshal Bazaine has a special interest for the American people from his connection with the Maximilian expedition to Mexico. He commanded the French contingent, succeeding Gen. Forey as chief. The success of the Emperor's disciplined troops against the half-armed and half-civilized levies of Mexico was almost as rapid and remarkable as that of Cortez or Pizarro against the aborigines. Oajaca was taken, Juarez was put to flight, and triumph was complete. All that was needed was stability. If the day of success was brilliant, the day of reverse was soon to come, and its darkness wiped out every memory of early good fortune. The termination of the American war and the known disinclination of the United States to foreign interference in American affairs animated the Mexicans with new hopes. Bazaine in counsel advised Maximilian that the empire was impossible; Bazaine was recalled; Maximilian court-martialed and executed, and Napoleon III. suffered such diminution of military prestige and political reputation as can only be restored by the possible successes of war with Prussia.

THE Boston Post (Dem.) thus moralizes upon the recent events of the war. The catastrophe to the French army is awakening reflection in the minds of those Radical writers who were quick to cry on Prussia in its aggrandizing efforts. The world is doubtless surprised enough at the comparatively easy victory of the Germans. It was thought safe enough to wish them success, as France had been considered invincible; but now that success has been achieved there is deep solicitation at the consequences of Louis Napoleon's overthrow. He has held France for twenty years in the path of order and progress; his power has maintained the equilibrium of Europe—Russia, Austria and Prussia all having found in him an insuperable obstacle to their despotic ambition. Commerce and the peaceful arts have thriven, the French people have been freer than ever before, and peace, not war, has been the grand object of his reign. After him will come the deluge. The malcontents in Paris, aided by Prussia's army, will seek to realize their agrarian projects; violence and anarchy will succeed order; revolutionary impulse will spread and Germany will be the first to receive it. Other States in Europe must yield to its influence and the Prussian despot may yet find a deserved punishment in his victory.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 13, 1870.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 48½@49.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 118@118¼.

THE WAR NEWS continues to be interesting though not particularly exciting. A great battle is imminent and it may occur to-morrow, as, for some reason or other, Sunday is deemed by military leaders a good day for grand fights. The French are anxious for the fray and if not too impetuous will offer strong battle to the Prussian hosts. If a fair field be offered, the contest will in all probability prove short, sharp and decisive, and the result of the war may be determined. If Napoleon wins a brilliant victory he is saved; if he suffers fresh defeat and disaster his dethronement is inevitable.

THE Commercial of yesterday says:

"When the mechanics and laborers in this part of the State made a straight out effort at the polls a few years ago, they found in the GAZETTE an enemy to the movement."

Of course they did. The GAZETTE showed them the folly of going outside of the party to right their wrongs, and like sensible men they took advice and came back into the ranks. We did not recommend to the Republican Executive Committee, as did the editor of the Commercial, to buy off the workingmen's organ, remarking that "they (its controllers) were very hard up." No indeed. We knew then that the workingmen were honest, and could not be bought, and that's what's the matter now. Try it again, neighbor.

STRASBURG, which is said to be completely surrounded by the Prussian army is a first class fortification of France, capital of the Rhin, and situated on the left bank of the river Ill about 250 miles east by south of Paris. Metz, the center of the French army, is situated on the Moselle river at its confluence with the Seille, and is 180 miles east, north-east of Paris, and 80 miles west, north west of Strasburg. Thionville, capital of an arrondissement in the Department of Moselle, is situated on the left bank of the Moselle river 17 miles north of Metz. Nancy is 147 miles east of Paris, and is situated on the left bank of the river Meurthe, and is about 30 miles east from Metz. Chalons-Sur-Marne, where we are somtimes informed the Emperor has his head-quarters, is capital of the department of Marne on the right bank of the river Marne, and is 98 miles east of Paris, and about half way between the latter city and Metz.

AFTER NAPOLEON--WHAT?

From the intensity of excitement reported from that point, it would seem that a new Reign of Terror, possesses Paris. The cause, in this instance, is different, but the effect may be the same. The French arms have been defeated, and through the blundering of the Emperor; then up goes the old terrific cry of Vive, anybody, everybody—somebody who will lead the nation to glory. This means abdication; and—after Napoleon, what? Perhaps the Prussians!

The Emperor has evidently played his last card, and the Napoleonic dynasty is at its end. The Plebiscite was reassuring, but it was not a battle now for France. Never having seen much of le grande Napoleon in the Nephew, his people have now besieged their idol, and it must crumble; for Frenchmen are seldom fooled save by themselves, and then they are sure to have a fearful revenge.

But after Napoleon, what? There is the rub. The immediate sequence will doubtless be a Dictator—or a President—and with it the enthusiastic unification of the people for that mythical object—"the glory of France." The remote sequence is even more conjectural than the immediate; but, for the time being, Prussia must find a more difficult advance than she has thus far met with; for the French only want some grande idee to make them furious in war and fanatical in peace.

So that we must not count on too easy an "On to Paris!" for the Prussians. We have only to remember our own late experience to learn somewhat of patience. Much of the demoralization reported from Paris exists only at that particular point, and is incited by the immediate enemies of the Empire. The mere idea of France being invaded is enough in itself to make a nation of heroes, no matter whether the Napoleon's go under or not. But the advantage which the Prussians have thus far gained is almost incalcuable, and the undoubted demoralization at Paris will not lessen it. The French government will be changed, whatever else happens.

THE NEW MINISTRY.

The change in the French Ministry has inspired the people with courage and infused into them fresh zeal. Everywhere they are clamoring for arms, and, as in 1792, seem determined to stem and roll back the torrent of invasion. The new cabinet is composed of men of vigorous determination, some of whom are well known to be the warm friends of Napoleon. Count de Palikao, the War Minister distinguished himself by the victories he won in China. His family name is Montauban. He has occupied the positions of a captain and diplomatist for many years. He is now seventy-four years of age. Prince De La Tour De Auvergne, who has been assigned the position of Minister of Foreign Affairs, is an accomplished diplomatist, and a man of great influence. He has been an Ambassador to the Court of St. James in London, and was a member of the French Cabinet prior to the organization of the Ollivier Ministry. Henri Chevreau, Minister of the Interior, has not much reputation beyond his advocacy of the interests of the Napoleonic rule. M. Rigault de Genouilly, one of the ablest admirals of the Empire has charge of the Navy. He took part in the siege of Sebastopol, and has been Minister of both army and navy. M. Pierre Magne is at the head of the Treasury department and is said to be one of the ablest financiers in France. Although not given to garrulity he always commanded the respect and attention of the Legislature when he rose to speak. Baron Jerome David, Minister of Public Works, served on the staff of Prince Napoleon in the Crimea. He has been Vice President of the Corps Legislatif, and is known as one of the most devoted personal friends of the Emperor. Like most of the French men of distinction, he achieved his fame in Algeria. He is a near relative to the distinguished artist. Jules Brame who holds the port-folio of Public Instruction is a great protectionist and a fast friend of the working classes. M. Clement Duvernois, Minister of Commerce, is a personal friend of Napoleon; but does not enjoy great fame as a public man. Thus it appears that the new Ministry numbers among its members some of the very strongest Imperialists. Still its formation affords no additional guarantee of the perpetuation of the Bonaparte dynasty. Popular passion has been lashed into the utmost wildness, and if it should fail to keep pace with the will of the masses its overthrow may be as rapid as that of Ollivier, and a new one may be formed that will be entirely anti-imperialist in its character.

OBITUARY.

It is with sincere sorrow that we announce the death of Mr. Philip R. Mertz, whose rash act of suicide, as recorded in our local columns this morning, swept into eternity the soul of one who was universally respected and esteemed and whose life of usefulness might have been prolonged many more years, had he possessed the true moral courage to stare a reverse of fortune full in the face, and to have gone nobly to work to strengthen that which was tottering, or to rebuild that which had already fallen. Just at the very moment, the crisis of his business life, when all his courage and full energies should have been brought into action, he, like many others who have gone before him in like manner, paused, wavered, grew disheartened, and rather than continue the struggle against adversity, put a period to his life's history and set a troubled soul free. Out of his terrible and tragic death a solemn sermon is preached. It is more powerful than could our weak words convey. But let the grave hide the transgression while we mourn the man.

Few young business citizens ever made as noble a struggle to succeed in life and fewer still sustained less impeachable reputations than Mr. Mertz. He commenced humbly, and slowly and steadily worked his way up into public confidence and esteem, and till within a few days back occupied a leading position among the staunch and responsible bankers of the community. He was industrious to a fault and made himself an abject slave to his business, and indeed, herein, to be charitable, we might reason that he so wasted his energies in the ordinary transaction of business that when an extraordinary turn in his affairs came he was unable to make strong effort to grapple with the embarrassments crowding upon him, or to exert himself sufficiently to master the situation. In his social character Mr. Mertz was genial, friendly, intelligent and courteous. He was no politician but adhered to the principles of the Republican party and lent his heartiest sympathies and contributed liberally to the advancement of freedom everywhere. In religious matters he was liberal in his views, and although a Protestant by profession, he labored zealously and earnestly towards establishing and maintaining the Public Catholic Library of this city, of which he was elected out of gratitude, on the part of the members of that institution, a director for several consecutive terms till he resigned the position. He was prominently identified with nearly all the social German societies and movements in this community and held several offices of honor and trust, among which the treasurership of the Humboldt Monumental Association, and also of the Allegheny County German Society to afford sanitary aid to the sick and wounded soldiers in Prussian hospitals. Only a few weeks ago Mr. Mertz united himself in matrimony to a handsome and accomplished young lady who is now frantic with grief and sorrow over the tragic death of the young husband who so recently led her as a bride to the altar and who was then full of life, happiness and contentment, enjoying a prosperity that gave no signs of the on-coming disasters which actuated his dreadful suicide.

For several consecutive years, and up till within a few months, the deceased occupied the position of Financial Editor of this journal. He was a careful writer and never wrote a line to mislead the public. He frequently remarked that it would be much to his interest to take different views of the money and stock markets if he were writing to advance the interests of himself and not those of the reading public. We can bear the highest tribute to his honesty and conscientiousness while editing our financial columns, and knowing so well as we do of his care and caution, we cannot conceive how he permitted himself to be pecuniarily swamped in dangerous speculations; however, the shrewdest and most honest men have been and will be drowned in the same water, no matter how many warning posts of danger may be set up to afford protection. In common with many others we mourn the loss the community has sustained in the death of Mr. Mertz and as we follow him to the grave we will forget his one sad shortcoming in the recollection of his kind deeds and generous nature, and we will hope that God has dealt with his soul as mercifully as his friends would pray.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Executive Committee of the Evangelical Alliance of the United States held a special meeting recently in New York, to consider the question of postponing the meeting of the General Evangelical Alliance appointed to be held at New York next month. In view of the distracted condition of the countries by the war between France and Prussia, the distinguished delegates appointed to represent the Alliances at Holland, Switzerland and other Branches, deemed it best not to leave home, and at the suggestion of those bodies, in which the British Alliance joined its request, and in addition to these foreign suggestions, members of the Alliances in this country, not present concurring in writing, the Committee decided that the proposed meeting in September would fail to be of the character that was originally intended, and therefore postponed the time at least for the present year. Much regret was felt at the necessity for postponement, because the arrangements were of such a character, as to promise to make the meeting a grand success. The Committee passed resolutions of thanks for the generous tender of means and hospitality, to promote the comfort of delegates; requesting the prayers of the friends that the Christian brethren in these lands now involved in war may be protected and delivered; expressing thanks for the increased and liberal co-operation of all evangelical denominations in advancing the principles of the Evangelical Alliance, etc. The first resolution, however, embodies fully the reasons for the postponement, and we give the full text, as follows: "Resolved, That the Executive Committee of the Evangelical Alliance of the United States with great reluctance yield to the expressed desire of the Alliances of Great Britain, France, Germany, Holland and Switzerland, that the General Conference, which was to be held in New York, September 22, 1870, be postponed on account of the war in Europe, which renders their attendance impracticable; and the Conference is hereby postponed, at least for the present year, and until such time as the Providence of God shall open the way for its successful convocation."

Rev. Dr. J. P. Newman, Chaplain of the United States Senate, and pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church, Washington City, reached Salt Lake City to discuss polygamy with Brigham Young. Prophet Brigham replied to his letter that he had not challenged him, to which Dr. Newman quoted the challenge as contained in the papers. The Independent says last Sunday afternoon Brigham invited Dr. Newman to preach in the Tabernacle, but he had already accepted an invitation to preach in the Methodist church, and therefore declined. We await the result of Chaplain Newman's visit with considerable interest, and hope he may have an opportunity to deliver his great sermon against polygamy.

At a meeting of Rabbis at Cincinnati, action was taken that from the prayer-book should be omitted all references to sacrifices, angels, resurrection from the dead, a return to Palestine, and a personal Messiah; and that the remaining prayers should be in English and German, and express the sentiments of modern Judaism; and that the services shall under no consideration be transferred to Sunday.

The Independent represents that the Illinois Lutheran Synod has passed a resolution calling on the General Council, at its next meeting, to pronounce distinctly on the four points of chillas, exchange of pulpits, open communion and secret societies.

In view of the unsuitability of the time for holding the Methodist State Convention, at Philadelphia, on the 6th of September, by request of many delegates, ministerial and lay, in the western part of the State, the Convention will be held on the 18th, 19th and 20th of October. This will suit admirably, as some of the delegates to the State Convention want to attend the annual session of the National Local Preachers' Association, in Philadelphia, which meets the 15th of October and adjourns on the 18th.

Sabbath evening last, a meeting was held in the First Presbyterian church of this city, under the auspices of the City Mission Committee of the Presbytery of Pittsburgh. The introductory services were conducted by Rev. Dr. M'Kinney, treasurer of the Committee, after which Rev. S. F. Scovel, pastor, preached a suitable sermon, followed by Rev. S. C. Farrs, missionary of the Committee, who presented the claims for immediate aid to remove a debt of three hundred dollars upon the Soho Mission. The Presbyterian Banner says this committee is composed of eighteen prominent members of the Presbytery—active, energetic business men, who are organized to plant Presbyterian missions in the many places needing them, in the city and its environs.

The Committe of six appointed to prepare a new Hymnal for the use of the American Episcopal Church, have had a meeting at Hadley, Massachusetts, and hope to be able to present the new Hymn book the coming autumn. This revision involves the Psalms as well as Hymns. There were present Bishops Clark, of Rhode Island, Bedell, of Ohio, Huntington, of Central New York and the Rev. Dr. Howe, of Philadelphia. The session occupied three days, and on their separation agreed to meet again in a few months.

The German Reformed church of Harrisburg, organized several months ago with ten members, now numbers one hundred and thirty members. Steps have been taken to erect a church on a lot recently secured for that purpose.

It is estimated that one million of dollars will be necessary to put the various Congregational Theological Seminaries in this country upon their proper foundation. They are at Andover, Yale, Bangor, Hartford, and one in California—the Pacific seminary.

Bishop Simpson is expected to return to this country from Europe by the Java, which will be due at New York about the 20th instant.

According to the report of the Board of Education of the Reformed (Dutch) Church in America, to the late General Synod of that body, sixty-seven young men are preparing for the ministry under the direction of the Board.

Vicar-General Starrs, of the Diocese of New York, in an address Sunday week, in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York City, explained the dogma of infallibility at considerable length, in which he showed that this is no new doctrine; the recent ceremony at Rome was only for its more distinct enunciation. It is as old as the Church itself. "Infallibility," he said, means this, and no more or less, that the Pope, speaking ex-catherda—officially from the chair of St. Peter, declaring anything as to matters of faith is infallible. This attribute belongs to all the successors of St. Peter, the visible head of the Church. Christ prayed for St. Peter that his faith might not fail, and said, "Peter thou art the rock; and on this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." "I give thee the keys of the Kingdom of Heaven." "Feed my lambs," etc. All that Christ gave Peter belongs to his successors. As Peter could not live always, the power given to him as head of the Church, could not be perpetuated except as delegated authority. This doctrine is, he argued, then, very simple and plain, when rightly received.

By the death of Chester Adams of Hartford, Connecticut, several benevolent and religious Societies of the Episcopal Church received one hundred thousand dollars from his estate, believed to be worth three hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Large donations to the Five-million Presbyterian Memorial Fund are beginning to come in. Not long since, Hon. W. E. Dodge, a princely giver, residing in New York, gave over fifty thousand dollars, and recently, John O. Brown, of Philadelphia, has given fifty thousand dollars, one half to be devoted to the enlargement of the Publication House in Philadelphia, and the other half to be paid over to the Treasurer for disbursements by the Committee.

Dr. Ellicott, the well known Theological scholar, expresses the opinion that in the whole sixty-nine hundred and forty-four verses in the New Testament, the revised passages will not exceed one for every five verses.

Bishop Whittingham, of the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, has generously offered to present to the Episcopalians of Washington, his valuable theological library, for the benefit of the Church in perpetuity, on condition that they provide a suitable fire proof building. The library contains ten thousand volumes, many of them rare and costly, and its value is estimated at thirty thousand dollars.

A SOLDIER'S VIEW OF THE WAR.

BEAVER FALLS, PA.,
August 11, 1870.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The war between France and Prussia has drawn our attention in that direction, and probably no war has engaged so much attention for a century, hardly, excepting our own late intestine difficulties. We all have our preferences. Very many sympathize with Prussia and quite a respectable number with France, and maybe when we hope for the success of either party, we magnify victories of that party, often too much. This was illustrated when we were at war. Thousands could only see ruin and destruction following in the path of the Union army, when from their hatred they only wished it. Dispatches from the Europen conflict are too, in many cases exaggerated accounts and wild prophecies. We might judge more accurately if we would only apply our own experience in war to the situation of the contestants over the water. We know that Prussia is getting farther away from her line of operations, and as a natural consequence, there is a long line of communication to be kept up. This will require a large force, and I have judged that should the army of Moltke come within cannon shot of Paris, it will require at least three hundred thousand men to keep their line of retreat open. Thus an advance by the Prussian army means a division of their strength. And the falling back by the French results in their concentration, which in the end gives them a double advantage. The attacking party should be double the strength of the army acting on the defence. I believe these are truths in military science. I remember in the defense of Knoxville, Tennessee, by the Ninth Army Corps and part of the Twenty-third Corps, there was an attack made on the city by the troops under Longstreet, and the result was that in the attack the rebels lost nearly one thousand men in killed, wounded and prisoners, while of the Ninth Corps, which bore the brunt of this attack, there were only fifteen killed and wounded. The defense is preferable to the attack. We should not be deluded by thinking the present war is a sure defeat for France. Unless there is a Copperhead party to contend against such as we had to fight in 1863—4. These governments are powerful in resources, and valor. Prussia may win the first battles, but she is diminishing her strength by advancing on Paris. Besides this, there is a moral element which will pervade the French army that will not ignore love of home and land. The French soldier loves his home and will fight to defend it, while the Prussian, which only fights for conquest, cannot have the same degree of valor as when defending, or driving off invaders of Fatherland. I am heartily in sympathy with the cause of Prussia, but I fear she is getting too far away from home to be safe. There is danger, in proportion to the distance from her base of supplies, threatening her armies. We had our Bull Run, so have the French, but it does not mean that France will win in the end, at all, only that being defeated at first, does not settle nor foretell the result of the contest. It is very foolish for correspondents to interview "a sergeant of the army" and then spread before the world what that sergeant says of the war and its end; and it is alike foolish to interview the President of the United States on his views of the same. We had a "three months" prophecy at the beinning of our late war by an eminent man and the war lasted over three years. Grant knows no more about how long the Franco-Prussian war will last than any other citizen of the country. People should not be fooled by prophets, they died long ago.

Yours truly,
"A ROUNDHEAD."

MESSRS. EDITORS—After reading the GAZETTE yesterday I examined the Commercial and Post to see if they really had formed an alliance, as you said, to try and elect the Democratic ticket in this county this fall, and sure enough I found the editorial of the Commercial of Thursday morning, which denounces President Grant and Governor Holden, and the Republicans of North Carolina, taking the position as an editorial (and double leaded) in the Post of Friday morning. Is it not time the eyes of all Republicans were opened to the workings of the Bolter's Organ?

A REPUBLICAN.

A Nice Little Story.

[From the Utica Herald.]

Once upon a time there was a young lady who had three pretty new teeth in her mouth. She bought them of a dentist, and they were fastened to a beautiful patent, vulcanized rubber plate. This young lady could eat almost anything with her new teeth, and she felt very proud of them, they were so useful, and looked so well when she smiled. One day she was eating dinner, just as fast as she could, and she got choked with a piece of bone. Then she ran into the woodshed and coughed until the tears came into her eyes, and her father came out and pounded her shoulders, and her mother made her drink a pint of water, and finally she got better; but, alas! her new teeth were gone. So herself, and her father, and her mother, and her two sisters, and her big brother, and the servant girl, and the neighbor's little boy, looked all over that woodshed for those teeth, but the could not find them. Then the young lady was scared, and she said to her mother: "O mother, I felt something hard in my throat when I drank that water, and I have swallowed my teeth, and I shall die—I know I shall die—and what shall I do?"

That scared the mother, and she put the young lady in bed and sent for the doctor. Well, the teeth made her very sick. You know how thin people get sometimes from the gnawings of remorse, and of course the gnawings of three patent porcelain teeth would be much worse. The doctor could do nothing, and the young lady kept getting worse and worse, until the doctor said she could not live more than twenty four hours. That very day the neighbor's little boy found the three lost teeth in the back yard, where they had been thrown while the young lady was coughing. He took them in and showed them to the young lady, who said she felt a good deal better, and got up and dressed. She is well now, but she always takes out her teeth before eating dinner.—Utica Herald.

A Life of Idleness Leads to a Life of Crime.

One of the young men recently sentenced by Judge Paxson to a long but just term of imprisonment, in a conversation with the officer who accompanied him to the Eastern Penitentiary, gave some account of his life, which showed that idleness and evil association had been his undoing. His father dying when he was quite young, he was left to the control and guardianship of the widowed mother, and she not being able to manage or support him, he was suffered to go where he pleased, and soon began to steal in a petty way to supply the means to live. His companions were lads much in the same condition as himself, and as they grew up, from stealing articles of little value from shop fronts and the entries of residences, they got to breaking into dwellings and places of business, with the occasional perpetration of the offence of highway robbery.

He further said that there are public houses in which thieves are harbored, and which afford places of concealment for stolen property; and also places in which valuables may be sold or put away, with the certainty that the thief or thieves will not be betrayed by the persons receiving the plunder. With all the incentives to the commission of crime, and the avenues of escape that are open to the criminal, it is scarcely to be wondered at that so many, who, as mere boys, are tempted to err, should become hardened criminals, ready to engage in any scheme of villainy proposed, or that their depraved minds suggest.—Phila. Ledger.

Pickwick not at First Successful.

Mr. James Grant says: "For the first five months of its existence Mr. Dickens' first serial, the 'Pickwick Papers,' was a signal failure, notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Charles Tilt, at that time a publisher of considerable eminence, made extraordinary exertions, out of friendship for Messrs. Chapman & Hall, to insure its success. He sent out, on what is called sale or return, to all parts of the provinces, no fewer than fifteen hundred copies of each of the first five parts. This gave the 'Pickwick Papers' a very extensive publicity, yet Mr. Tilt's only result was an average sale of fifty copies of each of the five parts. A certain number of copies sold, of course, through other channels, but, commercially, the publication was a decided failure. The question was debated by the publishers whether they ought not to discontinue the publication of the serial. But just while the matter was under their consideration, Sam Weller, who had been introduced in the previous number, began to attract great attention and to call forth much admiration. The press was all but unanimous in praising Samivel as an entirely original character, whom none but a great genius could have created; and all of a sudden, in consequence of Samivel's popularity, the 'Pickwick Papers' rose to an unheard of popularity."

A FLORENCE CORRESPONDENT of the N. Y. Times says: As you already know, the infallibility scheme has been voted by the Council and proclaimed as a law of the Church. Not the slightest attention was paid to the intelligence, when it was published here. The public was long ago prepared for this decision of the Council, which has changed nothing, and will be likely to do little to help Rome in the Kingdom of Italy. There has been, since the vote was taken, hardly an article in the journals upon the subject, so completely is attention taken up with the war. I am sorry to observe that the priests seem to be happy that France and Prussia are in conflict, for they believe that Gallicanism and Lutheranism, which they equally hate, are to punish each other.

A PARODY FOR THE SEASON.

Three women went waddling out into the surf,
Out into the surf at Newport town;
Each wore a bath suit of the very best,
Costing as much as a wedding gown.
For men must work and women must lave,
And what men earn their wives don't save.
Though husbands they be moaning.

Three brokers sat up at three high desks,
And balanced their books as the sun went down;
Each "poring" over ledgers that wouldn't come straight,
Each wrapped in a study disgustingly brown.
For men must sweat, and women keep cool,
And women must ever be fashion's fool,
Though husbands they be moaning.

Three names are struck from the Gold Board's books;
Three broker's sign-boards are taken down;
Three men are busy "seeing their friends,"
Borrowing money to get out of town.
For men must break, if women must waste,
And it costs a deal to be "people of taste,"
So good-bye to the fools and their moaning.

—Punchinello.

FALSE PRETENCES.

The vast and continually increasing sales of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have provoked the envy of a certain class of dealers in various parts of the country, who are trying to substitute their utterly worthless local nostrums for the most popular proprietary medicine in the world. These imposters hope by their false statements to obtain from the millions who patronize the great American Tonic, a sufficient number of customers to make their speculations upon the health of their neighbors profitable. As the demand for Hostetter's Bitters is now so large and urgent as to tax to their fullest extent the facilities for its manufacture, these petty attempts to wring in the merest trash by false representations, are of little consequence to its proprietors. They are, however, a serious evil, to the victimized. If, for example, at this warm season, when a real invigorant is greatly needed, the sufferer from general debility, indigestion, biliousness or nervous weakness, is coaxed into using a wishy washy compound without any medicinal virtue, instead of the sovereign specific in which the rarest tonic and alterative vegetable elements are scientifically combined, it is obvious that he will rue the day when he allowed himself to be thus deluded. It is in the interest of parties who have been or may be influenced by the persuasion of plausible charlatans, that this article is published. With the light of twenty years' experience to guide him, why should the invalid take a leap in the dark.

GRATES!
Keep Your Houses Clean,
AND
BY USING THE
Wellman Patent Reflector Grate.
WHICH STANDS WITHOUT A RIVAL.

We claim for it the following advantages over any other in use:

1st. As a radiator of heat it has double the intensity.

2d. It is unquestionably the most cleanly—very little soot or ashes escaping into the room—which in the ordinary Grate, proves so detrimental to carpets and furniture.

3d. The combustion is perfect. There is no waste in unburnt cinders—every ounce of the fuel is so completely consumed, that nothing remains but the finest ashes.

4th. As an economizer of fuel—there being an actual saving of at least 25 per cent.

5th. It is highly ornamental.

6th. It is set so deep in the chimney, that it is much safer, and also less liable to puff in windy weather.

7th. A slight motion of the shaker cleanses the entire fire, and causes it to burn with great brilliancy and intensity of heat.

Samples may be seen and references had at the store of W. BARNES, corner of 3d avenue and Market street, Pittsburgh; W. F. GOODWIN, 66 Federal street, Allegheny, or at the FOUNDRY, corner Duquesne Way and Water street, Pittsburgh.

The greater part of the road is already completed, and the earnings from the finished portion are already more than sufficient to pay operating expenses and interest on the bonds. The balance of the work is progressing rapidly, in time for the movement of the coming grain crops, which, it is estimated will double the present income of the road. The established character of this line, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings, warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors as, in every respect, an undoubted security.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the Company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent. currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties at present prices only return 5 per cent., and we regard the security equally safe.

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL PRIVATE DISEASES, Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, Pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays 12 M. to 3 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE ST. (near Court House) Pittsburgh.

MONEY AND COMMERCE.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, August 12, 1870.

The Stock Exchange was generally quiet. The news of the suspension of the Bank of France had been anticipated, and produced no effect on gold. The market was strong and higher and the price advanced to 118⅜, due to the large amount going out by steamers tomorrow. Thus far the engagements amount to $1,800,000. The price opened at 117 and closed at 118@118⅛. Carrying rates 3 per cent. and for borrowing flat at 1-64. Clearances $84,000,000.

Money easy at 3@4 on call, with exceptions at 2. Sterling dull and unchanged.

Governments dull and weak. Coupons, 1881, 114⅜@114⅝; 1862, 111⅝@111⅞; 1864, 110⅝@111; 1865, 110⅜@111; new, 109⅝@109⅞; 1867, 109⅝@109⅞; 1868, 109⅞@110⅛; 10-40s, 107⅛@107⅜. Currencies 112@112⅛. State bonds quiet; Missouri, 90; Tennessee, old, 62; new, 60⅛; North Carolina, old, 50; new, 30⅛. Stocks dull and weak and without special features.

PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, August 12, 1870.

It is now the fashion to discount all future events that are expected to have an influence on the markets, and to such an extent is this carried on, that is difficult to tell whether events produce the most effect on prices before they happen or afterward. As the Chicago Tribune very pertinently remarks: "Before a shot had been fired in the present war in Europe, United States bonds in Europe fell seven or eight per cent, gold advanced from 116 to 123, and wheat advanced from 110 to 130. Now that the expectation of war, on which all this was done, has been actually realized, and while the two armies are still reported as concentrating for the shock of another battle, anticipation again runs ahead of the event and is discounting a peace. Bonds are declaration of war. Gold is down to where it was on July 16, and only 4 per cent higher than before the talk of war, and wheat is down nearly to the prices of a month ago."

The same paper also says: "Notwithstanding the great increase in the foreign demand that was expected to result from the war, the export of breadstuffs for the expired portion of the year has been but little greater than for the corresponding period of last year. With warehouses still full of the old crop, and a new crop just beginning to come in, the effect of a declaration of peace can scarcely fail to depress prices below the present average."

ASHES—Common soda ash, 4; refined, 4½; Pearls, 9½; Pots 7½.

APPLES—Continue to arrive freely and the market is dull and prices weak, with a drooping tendency. We continue to quote at $3,50@4 for fair to good, and $4½ for prime.

BUTTER—Prime butter is in steady demand and notwithstanding the arrivals are increasing, prices are still maintained, 25@28, the outside figure for choice.

BEANS—There is so little doing that there are no established quotations.

BROOM CORN—Is coming in pretty freely, and is dull and cannot fairly be quoted above 11@12.

CEMENT—Sales Louisville Hydraulic at $3@3½, and Calcined Plaster at $4½ per bbl.

CHEESE—Is reported firmer, though unchanged. Sales of Ohio at 12 for Hamburg, 13 for Factory, and 16 for Goshen. Sweitzer, 18.

CORNMEAL—Is being sold in small lots in store at $1@1,05 per bushel.

CARBON OIL—The demand continues light and the market is dull and prices so unsettled and irregular, that accurate quotations cannot be given.

DRIED FRUIT—Sales of Peaches at 8½@9 cts. for halves, and 6@7 cts. for quarters. No apples except very inferior, and not very many even of this kind.

EGGS—Strictly fresh eggs are reported in fair demand with sales at 16@17, mostly at 16, while old stock is a drug, and can scarcely be sold at any price. The receipts hold up remarkable well for the season.

FLOUR—The market is weak, and as might be expected, the demand has fallen off somewhat, and western flours may be quoted 25cts per bbl lower. A few days ago dealers were indifferent about selling, but tables have been turned, as buyers are now indifferent about buying. Quotations may be given at $7@7½ for fair to choice western brands. Rye flour, $6@6.25.

GRAIN—Wheat continues weak, though there is no quotable change in prices, $1.35@1.37 for prime red, and 5@10 cts per bushel more for white—there is very little offering in this market. Oats dull and unsettled, and as yet it is hard to determine the difference in price to make between the old and new. The latter were offering to-day on wharf and platform at 45 to 48, as to quality, and we presume, dealers would pay 40@43 and furnish sacks, the seller of course to deliver here. Old oats may be quoted at 50@52. Corn is dull and there are no regular quotations. Dealers are offering 90 cts for rye, and furnishing sacks. The inquiry for big lots which prevailed a few days since has subsided and we presume that all the large contracts have been covered. There has been nothing done in Barley as yet, and as we have repeadily stated brewers and malsters do not want to buy until the weather becomes cooler. It is supposed, however, that the market will open up at about one dollar for prime spring, though of this there is no certainty.

GROCERIES—The market is quiet and devoid of a single new feature worthy of notice. Sugars are in steady demand, with regular sales at 10@12 for raw, 15 for crushed; 14 for A Coffee, 13½ for "B," and 13⅛ for Ex. C. New Orleans Molasses scarce and firm at 85, notwithstanding the demand is only moderate. Syrups continue dull. Coffee is steady notwithstanding the decline in gold.

HAY—Is selling from country wagons at $16@18.

HUSKS—Corn husks, 3@3½ cts.

LIME—Sales of Cleveland at $2,25 per bbl, and eastern at $1,75.

LARD OIL—F. Sellers & Co. quote Extra No. 1 at $1,30@1,32, and No. 2 at 98@1,00. Fancy western brands are quoted at $1,25 for No. 1.

LIVE POULTRY—Sales half grown chickens at 30@40, and full grown at 50@60 by the coop. Ducks 75@85 per pair.

PROVISIONS—Plain Shoulders, 14½@15; Sugar Cured Shoulders, 16½@16¾; Short Ribbed Sides, 17½@18; Clear Sides, 18½; Sugar Cured Hams 25½@26. Dried Beef 23. Lard, 17¾ in tcs, and 18½@18¾, in buckets. Mess Pork, $31 00.

POTATOES—Dull and unchanged at $2,50@4 per bbl. Jersey sweets $7@7½ per bbl.

PEACHES—Sales of eastern at $2,50@3,50 per box. From all that we can gather, the peach crop will be unusually light.

SEEDS—No movement in Clover or timothy seeds. Flaxseed is also dull, notwithstanding the arrivals are light, and cannot be quoted above $2,20.

SALT—Allegheny river brands may be quoted at $1,60 by the car load and $1,70@1,75 for small lots in store.

Live Stock Market.

NEW YORK, August 12.—No Erie trains in yet, hence a scarcity of beeves. Arrivals today 37 cars at Communipaw and 39 at Hundredth street, 1160 head; total for the week, 5760. Market quiet and prices slightly improved, but sellers feared to put up much, dreading a glut next Monday. Texans sold at 9@11c; a lot of poor Jersey stock cattle, 4 cwt, at $30 each, with a drove of 7¾ cwt Kentucky steers at 13@15½c. Stock nearly all sold. Sheep count nearly 5000 to-day, and 2480 for the week; they go slowly to-day at slight concessions, as a car of 70 pound Ohio sheep are selling at 4¾c; a car of 82 pound at 5½c; a deck of 90@93 pounds fat Indiana at 6¾c; a lot of 58 pounds State lambs at 8c, and some State and Canadas, 57 pounds, at 7 cents; prime lambs are worth 9c. Barely three cars Hogs have arrived to-day, making 11,880 head for the week; they are less firm and selling at 12@12¼c net.

New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, August 12.—Cotton quiet and firm; middling at 17¼c per bbl; sales of 500 bales; receipts, 328 bales; stock, 39,254 bales; receipts for the week, 994 bales; exports, 5,050 bales; sales for the week 1,750 bales.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, August 12, 1870.

There is nothing particularly new or important to be said in regard to the oil trade There is still a fair volume of business, all things considered, but it is mostly speculative which is apparent from the large number of long lines sold recently, some of them running for fifteen months. There is not much doing in a strictly legitimate way, nor is there any chance in the present state of affairs, as the market is too sensitive and unsettled. There are those who think there is not much risk in buying and selling options at present quotations, though, of course, the principals in these transactions take an entirely different view of the situation, prospective, and in the end, while one will come out right, the other is just as certain to come out wrong.

CRUDE.

Sales 1,000 seller August at 9; 5 cars on spot at 9; 1,000 buyer until September 1st 1871, at 13; 1,000 seller September at 9.

REFINED.

Sale of 500 each September and October at 23¾; 1,000 August at 23¾; at the close it was said that 24¼ was bid to be delivered on the 20th inst., while all month was held at 24. From the fact that oil to be delivered on the 20th is worth more than last half of the month, it would appear there there is something up—that somebody is apprehensive of a "corner" whether such a thing is contemplated or not.

RECEIPTS CRUDE.

Wm. Lyon 370, on account Parker & Thompson; Waring & King 89, on account L. W. Young; National Ref. Co. 400, on account Thos. Hackett; Jas. Wilkins 330, on account P. & B. Fet. Co; E. L. Goodwin 74, on account J. B. Barbour; Fisher Bro. 74, on account Roess Bro.

Total ...... 1,528 bbls

PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, August 12, 1870.

The metal market is fairly active as much so as is usual at this particular time; and there is a fair inquiry making by consumers preparatory to a resumption of operations. Stocks, although by no means large, are in most descriptions equal to any probable early demand, though in certain favorite brands of standard forge irons, continued firmness is maintained, indicating that a further slight advance is not improbable. The great proportion of the metal now arriving is being placed on former contracts and, consequently, there is but little going into yard. The arrivals from the east are very light which is owing to the fact that prices are much better in the eastern markets than here.

RIVER NEWS.

The river rose several inches yesterday with three feet three inches in the channel by the Monongahela marks. Weather cloudy and warm, with occasional showers.

Capt. Ab Shaw, of the steamer Arkansas, has just returned from Iowa, where he has been rusticating for several weeks He leaves for St. Louis next week.

The W. F. Curtis, from Wheeling, arrived and departed as usual.

Capt. Dan Moore, of the Arlington, has returned from Cairo, at which point he delivered his boat to the Illinois Central R. R. Co. to take place of the Dan Able. He came through by rail, by way of Chicago.

We have the following information in regard to some of the coal fleet. Simpson Horner aground at the Sisters; Ajax, laid up at Richietown; Hercules at Freedom; Boaz at Raccoon, and Wild Cat and James Gilmore opposite Sewickley.

Capt. Henry Haney, who for some weeks has temporarily been in command of the Belle, in absence of Capt. J. P. Smith, has retired, Capt. Smith having returned. Captain Haney goes to Wellsburg to enjoy a few weeks vacation with his family.

Capt. A. S. Shepard was in town yesterday. Capt. W. W. Martin and wife, who are absent on a European tour, leave Glasgow for home to day.

—A St. Louis dispatch says: The subject of building iron steamers is the topic of a great deal of conversation among the steamboatmen and others here, and it is said that the experiment will soon be tried. Capt. Bolinger, D. P. Powell and their associates are spoken of as the parties to inaugurate the new order of things The new steamer is to be built at St. Louis, and is too be of the following dimensions: 250 feet long, 45 feet beam, 9 feet hold, with low pressure engines, and 60 inch cylinder. Her hull plates ar to be three-eights of an inch thick, and her cost is $200,000

—The Nashville Republican Banner says: A magnificent solid silver and salver set has been presented to Capt. John W. Cannon of the steamer R. E. Lee. The Courier Journal says the gift is intended as a token of the esteem of Louisville steamboat builders, and the "swiftness of the boat which we turn out." Considering the fact that no Louisville mechanic so much as drove a single nail nor handled a single timber of the Lee, the "we" may be regarded as decidedly cool but by no means correct. The impudence of that one horse Kentucky village passeth all understanding.

—The machinery of the Neville was towed on a flat to Parkersburg, Monday, by the Naoma, instead of to Pittsburgh, as heretofore stated. It was purchased by the owners of the Naoma for $1,600, and will be used in a new boat being built by them at Parkersburg. The Naoma is a little boat, with a portable engine, that runs up the Kanawha.—Cin. Gazette.

—Capt. Carleton's new Red river steamer was launched from the yard of Wilson, Dunlevy & Co., Wheeling, on Monday. Length, 130 feet beam, 30 feet; hold, 4 feet. Nearly the entire upper works were in position when the launch took place.

—A cut-off is advocated across the points of land on the north side of the Arkansas River in front of Sneider's and Rawling's landings, so as to lead the water into the White River cut-off, and thence into the Mississippi.

—The Memphis Ledger of the 8th says The wrecking boat Eckert arrived this morning from the wreck of the Emma No. 2. She brought the boilers recovered from that boat, and returns to the wreck to-night.

—At Louisville work has commenced on Capt. Pegram's steamer. She is three hundred and twenty-five feet long, ninety-six feet wide, and ten feet hold.

—At last accounts the Great Republic had got off Liberty Bar after taking off nearly all her freight.

—George J. Duncan is mentioned as the river reporter of the New Orleans Commercial Bulletin.

FINANCIAL.

LOAN
of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Co.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad

Is completed and running from RICHMOND, VA., to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Virginia, 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio river, 200 miles further making in all 427 miles.

In its progress Westward, it penetrates and opens up to market the WONDERFUL COAL DEPOSITS OF THE KANAWHA REGION IN WEST VIRGINIA. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coals of that section into communication with the IRON ORES OF VIRGINIA AND OHIO, and the WESTERN, SOUTH WESTERN AND EASTERN MARKETS.

When completed it will connect the SUPERIOR HARBOR FACILITIES OF THE CHESAPEAKE BAY with reliable navigation on the Ohio river, and thus with the ENTIRE SYSTEM OF RAILROAD AND WATER TRANSPORTATION OF THE GREAT WEST AND SOUTHWEST.

It will make a SHORT, EASY, CHEAP and FAVORABLE ROUTE from the WEST to the SEA and will command a LARGE SHARE OF THE ENORMOUS FREIGHTS seeking transportation to the coast.

It will thus become one of the most IMPORTANT AND PROFITABLE EAST AND WEST TRUNK LINES OF RAILROAD in the country, and command a trade of immense value.

The completed portion of the Road is doing a PROFITABLE AND INCREASING BUSINESS, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—$15,000,000.

The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a FIRST MORTGAGE UPON THE ENTIRE LINE, PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENTS WORTH WHEN COMPLETED AT LEAST $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial conservative and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of

Who is [illegible]!—The Uniontown Genius says: "A young lady from Pittsburgh was bitten by a rattlesnake at Dunbars Camp on Monday. Fortunately Dr. James Fuller was with the party, and under his skillful treatment the poison was soon extracted, and the young lady has recovered."

A Ruction.—Henry Rourke and Michael Shay, got up a ruction yesterday. Shay knocked his antagonist down and kicked, and threatened to kill him. Rourk made information before the Mayor charging Shay with assault and battery, and also for surety of the peace. A warrant was issued.

Death from the Effect of Sunstroke.—An interesting little daughter of Mr. H. Y. Boyce, about four years of age, died yesterday morning from brain fever, superinduced by sunstroke a few days since. The funeral will take place this afternoon at half-past two o'clock, from her parents' residence, Congress street, Seventh ward, Pittsburgh.

Recruits.—"Tin Pot" alley furnished three able-bodied recruits for the Work House, yesterday. Thomas Wilson, Frank Bowen and Daniel Vara took possession of a house in the alley and were having a good time, when officer Cupples, assisted by some of the night police, arrested them. The Mayor sent them to the Work House for thirty days each.

Impolite.—The brothers James and Archibald McCallum are in trouble. Impoliteness was their fault. They were impolite enough to apply epithets to John Broman, which would have been better suited in a descriptive sketch of a member of the "rogues fraternity." Alderman McMasters compelled the McCallums to give bail for Court, upon an information for surety of the peace.

Would you enjoy a pleasant summer evening's reverie. First go to Megraw's No. 45 Ninth street and get a package of his new smoking tobacco, together with a meerschaum; or a box of those "Just Out" club cigars. Sit down after supper with the fragrant weed and if the hours do not pass pleasantly set yourself down as radically out of sorts and in urgent need of medical or some other kind of attention.

McMahon Beaten.—George Brown in a recent engagement with Owen McMahon (not the General) was as successful as were the Prussians against the General. McMahon was beaten, but he has secured an alliance which will likely work to the disadvantage of Brown. He appealed to the strong arm of the law through the Mayor and Mr. Brown is wanted at the Mayor's office to answer a charge of assault and battery.

Hymenial.—Thomas Richards sought amusement Thursday night in whipping his family and driving them out of the house. They resided in the Third ward, Allegheny. The police interfered, but as soon as they left the place Thomas continued the sport. Last evening the family were deprived of Thomas' congenial society. He spent the night in the lock-up, with a good chance of going to the Work House this morning or paying a fine.

At the Well.—Who that has been in the harvest field under the rays of the sun, when returning, wearied and hot and dusty and thirsty, has not remembered with devotional fervor "the pitcher at the well," with all its accompanying attractions, especially if it has been one of those elegant, neatly designed and finely finished articles which alone are manufactured at the Keystone Pottery, the warehouse of which is at No. 231 Liberty street.

Allegheny long needed a good hotel. At last Mr. G. C. Lightcap undertakes to supply the want, and the Girard House, corner of Federal and Isabella streets, near the Suspension Bridge, is the result. All who can appreciate enterprise, all who admire clean, comfortable and convenient lodging rooms, all who are not averse to a table supplied with food nourishing and palatable, and all who desire quietness in boarding, should patronize the Girard House.

Land Sale.—We desire to call the attention of our readers to the land sale at Mansfield to-day. John H. Stewart, Auctioneer, will sell at public sale on the premises, fifty acres of valuable land, at or near Mansfield station, fronting on the railroad. The land is subdivided into one, and five acre lots, and is near the junction of the Chartiers and Panhandle railroads, which adds greatly to its value. Capitalists will do well to attend the sale to-day at 12 o'clock.

The Card of Jacob Covode, of Sharpsburg, appears in to-day's GAZETTE as candidate for County Commissioner, subject to the decision of the Convention. Mr. Covode is one of the old line Republicans, and an honest, moral man, and if nominated would make a good Commissioner. He is the same individual Mr. Kirk, the man who is opposed to "setting up things" assured that if he would allow his name to be used in the new party movement, he would see that he was put through.

Corner Stone Ceremony.—The laying of the corner stone of the new Soho Public School house, on Fifth avenue, will take place this afternoon at four o'clock. The following order of exercises will be observed: Singing, by pupils; prayer, by Rev. J. D. Herr; introductory remarks, by Graham Scott; laying corner stone, by George Fawcett; address, by George J. Luckey; singing, by pupils; oration, by W. C. Moreland; singing, by pupils; addresses, by Rev. J. D. Herr, T. J. Craig and J. P. Andrews.

Held for Trial.—Wm. Cappendorf, charged with entering the store of W. G. Dunseath, with intent to commit a felony, an account of which we published yesterday, was before the Mayor yesterday for a hearing. He acknowledges his guilt in entering the store, and also admitted to stealing a gold watch from the store, some weeks prior to the robbery, while he was at work cleaning a cess-pool in the rear of the building. The watch was recovered and information was made charging Cappendorf with larceny. He was committed to jail in default of bail.

Arrested and Escaped.—Catharine C. Wegner made information, before Justice Heisel, yesterday, charging W. N. Henderson with burglary. It appears that Henderson was found in her room on Thursday night with his boots off, and was captured by two men, who boarded in the house. He was then taken to the lock-up and kept until yesterday, when he was brought out for a hearing, which resulted in his being held to bail for his appearance at Court. He started out with an officer to secure the bail and by some means escaped from the officer and has not since been heard of.

Floating in the River.

Yesterday morning a young man while rowing across the Monongahela at Six Mile Ferry, discovered the body of a man floating in the water. He attached it to his skiff and pulled it to the shore. Alderman Donaldson was then sent for, and in the afternoon proceeded to the place, where an inquest was held. The body was that of a middle aged man, and had apparently been in the water some time. In one pocket was found a pass book, in which was written "Bernhardt Meyer, shoemaker, 43 Lamberton street, Trenton, New Jersey." There were also several memoranda, written with lead pencil in German, which could not be made out. From the clothing it was evident the body was that of a laboring man, but nothing further could be elicited. The jury returned a verdict of death by drowning.

A Young Rogue.

Rascality seems to have been developed rapidly in a youth who is now enjoying the repose of the Allegheny lock-up. His name is Albert Parker, his age about twelve years, and his home Virgin alley of this city. About a week ago he entered the store of Mr. F. E. Wells, Federal street, near the Diamond, and stole [illegible] 15 from the till. The store was in charge of a small boy at the time. A policeman was notified who gave chase, but the young rascal escaped. Last evening he was detected in the act of stealing a water melon from a stand in the Allegheny Diamond. When arrested and taken to the lock-up he was identified. Mr. Wells upon being informed of his arrest came to the office and made information charging him with larceny, upon which he will have a hearing this morning. His prospects for entering the House of Refuge are rosy.

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY!

A Banker Ends His Life—Shot Through the Heart—Business Complications and Temporary Insanity—How the Deed was Done—The Last Actions of the Victim—The Young Home Destroyed—A Promising Career Fearfully Ended—The News in the City—Intense Excitement—Coroner's Investigation and the Verdict.

Intense excitement was created in this city yesterday morning, particularly in financial circles, at the announcement of the death by suicide of Philip R. Mertz, a well known banker, doing business at the corner of Fifth avenue and Wood street. The report was at first discountenanced by all who knew Mr. Mertz, but on investigation it was found to be true. The rash deed was perpetrated it is supposed, about ten minutes past five o'clock yesterday morning, but was not discovered for more than an hour after that time.

Shortly after six o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Frederica Schroder, a German woman who for several years past has been employed by Mr. Mertz as janitress of the banking house, came as was her custom to sweep out and set things to rights for the day. She carried a key to the main door and on inserting it in the lock discovered that the door was locked from the inside, and that the key had been left in the lock. After working some time to no purpose she called to her assistance Mr. James Robinson, proprietor of a shoe store in the basement under the banking house, who succeeded in removing the key from the lock and unlocking the door. Mrs. Schroder entered the bank, and passing to the back part of the room to a small closet used as a wash room, to get water to sprinkle the floor,

A HORRID SPECTACLE

presented itself. Sitting in an office chair, in the washing room facing Wood street, with the head thrown back, eyes wide open and the eyeballs protruding from their sockets, the lower jaw distended, the right hand lying in his lap and the left hanging over the arm of the chair, and a dark red spot of blood about two inches in diameter on the shirt front over the locality of the heart was the body of her late employer,

PHILIP R. MERTZ,

the banker and proprietor of the establishment. Frightened at the sickning scene, and with her head filled with thoughts of robbers, thieves and murder, she rushed to the street and gave

THE ALARM.

Officers Isaac Jones and Wright, who were on duty at the corner, rushed in and discovered the body as above described. Soon a crowd began to assemble about the doors, which every moment was increasing in numbers, and it was with the greatest difficulty that the eager, curious and excited throng could be restrained from entering the

BANKING ROOM.

The apartment in which the tragedy was enacted is located on the first floor of the building with the entrance on Wood street. The counter extends along the north side of the room, and across the rear end. At the rear the safe vault is located, and on the side next to Fifth avenue was a small vault, immediately beneath the stairway leading from the avenue to the upper stories of the building. In this vault, the dimensions of which were about three by five feet, the wash basin and ice cooler were located. Everything about the room was in its usual condition, with the exception that a coat and vest was lying on the rear counter while a small traveling satchel and a linen duster was found on a desk near the front door, and reclining upon the chair in the wash room or vault as above described with a pool of blood on the floor beside it was the

GHASTLY CORPSE.

The officers sickened by the scene hastened from the room, and while officer Jones secured the door against the visitors, officer Wright hastened to the station house and notified Chief Hague, who in turn sent word to Alderman Donaldson, Acting Coroner.

THE EXCITEMENT.

By the time the Chief of Police and Acting Coroner arrived the excitement on the street had reached a high pitch. Rumors of burgarly, robbery and murder were freely circulated and were rapidly gaining credence. Some one of the employees who had been allowed to enter the room, after coming out stated that the safe was not disturbed, and that there was no evidences whatever of a robbery or even an attempted one, and that he was satisfied that it was a case of

SUICIDE.

A newspaper reporter who had also been permitted to view the place, concurred in the opinion, and it became then the settled theory. The next question was what induced the act. There were a number of persons present who claimed to be depositors in the bank, and they were exceedingly clamorous to know the condition of the finances, some of them even going so far as to demand their money, while others were willing to bide their time yet anxious to know the worst, and numerous were the questions asked as to the

PROBABLE CAUSE.

So far as can be ascertained from facts gathered from friends of the deceased and the evidence adduced at the inquest, Mr. Mertz has for some time past been speculating heavily in gold and stocks, and the recent decline in the former from 22 to 16, caught him with a large amount on hand and caused his financial ruin, and has probably involved some of his friends. This fact, however, does not appear in the evidence, but is gathered from parties who have a knowledge of his financial affairs. During the entire day Thursday, he was, or appeared to be irritable and excitable, and unable to concentrate his mind upon anything but his business. He was naturally of an excitable temper, and his irritability Thursday attracted but little attention, except from those connected with him in business affairs.

HIS LAST DAY.

On Thursday morning he informed his wife that he must go to New York on the noon train on business of importance, and taking his satchel and other necessary articles for a brief sojourn, left his residence in Allegheny City and came to his place of business. Here he met his book-keeper, and after attending to some business with him, started for the depot, accompanied by his wife, but missed the train. He appeared to be annoyed and excited on account of not getting off on the noon train, and signified his intention to go on the 4 P. M. train. During the time intervening he, in company with his wife, transacted some private business, and when 4 o'clock arrived he discovered that he was again too late for the train, but this did not appear to affect him much, as he said he could take the 7:40 train and arrive in New York as soon as by leaving at 4 o'clock.

A SETTLEMENT.

After concluding to start for New York in the evening, he went to the banking house and had a settlement with Mr. Gustave Schultze, his book-keeper, and gave directions for conducting the business during his absence, after which he started home with the understanding that he would meet Mr. Schultze at the bank at half past six o'clock. He went home, and after eating his supper, returned to the bank at the hour appointed, and after some conversation on business affairs with his book-keeper, remarked and bade him good-bye. There was a perceptible change in his manner, which Mr. Schultze attributed to the excitement under which he appeared to labor during the day.

"YOU KNOW ALL,"

The facts and circumstances transpiring during the day all seem to indicate that the great excitement and mental labor of the day, had so worked upon him as to temporarily yet there appears to have been "method in his madness" with all. During the afternoon he fixed up little business transactions with several parties, secured a life insurance policy which he had transferred to his wife some two months since, gave special directions concerning private matters, but all the time giving evidence of great mental excitement. The measures were evidently taken in full contemplation of the tragic act which terminated his life, although none of his friends entertained any apprehension of suce a result.

DETHRONE HIS REASON,

THURSDAY NIGHT.

Why he failed to leave for the East at 7:40, as he proposed to do, can only be answered by conjecture, as no one who knows his business affairs saw him after that time alive. When and how he spent the time from half past six, the time the book keeper left him until ten o'clock, is not known. At ten o'clock, or a few minutes after, he was at McGinley's, on Wood street, and ate some ice cream and cake, and conversed for some time with a gentleman connected with the establishment, who states that he noticed nothing unusual about the man. Subsequently he was seen by an acquaintance on the Penn street cars. About one o'clock, Mr. Smith, an acquaintance met him on the St. Clair street bridge and conversed with him for some time, about matters both general and local and he gave no indications of insanity whatever,

HIS LAST LETTER.

In searching over his papers in order if possible to get some clue as to the cause of the rash act the Acting Coroner found in the drawer of the desk occupied by the book-keeper, a letter addressed to "Mrs. Ph. R. Mertz" his wife, to whom he has been married between three and four months, which is presumed to be an

EXPLANATION OF THE MYSTERY.

The letter was doubtless intended for his wife only. It alludes to her most affectionately and in a manner calculated to dispel at once and forever the idea that the slightest difficulty or misunderstanding existed between them. It gives a detailed account of the causes which led to his financial difficulties, and intimated that persons who professed to be his friends and whom he had befriended in an hour of need had failed to meet their obligations or responsibilities, whereby he was financially ruined, and concludes by saying that he preferred to take his own life rather than endure the consequences of his failure. It expresses a determination on the part of the writer to commit suicide, after which he bids his wife an affectionate farewell.

THE INQUEST.

Alderman Donaldson, acting Coroner, responded promptly to the summons and as soon as he arrived summoned a jury, to hold an inquest. The following testimony was taken:

Gustave Schultze, sworn—Saw Mr. Mertz about seven o'clock last evening; he intended to start east; he missed the twelve and four o'clock trains; he then said he would leave at seven o'clock; I saw he was much excited all day yesterday; we made our settlement yesterday afternoon, and he said he was going home; he returned to the banking house about half past six o'clock. Mr. Mertz, myself and the woman who cleans have keys. He said to me just as I left him, "Schultze, you know all." I thought it strange at the time, but thought it was owing to his excitement.

Fredericka Schroeder, sworn—For the past five years have been sweeping out the banking house; have a key for myself; about six o'clock this morning I came, but the door was locked and the key inside; the man occupying the cellar room got the key out of the lock with a knife; I then unlocked the door and found the body of the deceased, and immediately called the police; this was about seven o'clock.

James Robinson, sworn.—Occupy the basement story of the banking house of deceased; generally close at nine o'clock; heard no unusual noises previous to closing last night; I came to my place of business about fifteen minutes of seven; when I came the old lady called my attention to the door; saw the key was in the lock; pushed it out with my knife, and then went down; heard some person say there was something wrong; looked into the banking house and saw Mr. Mertz in a reclining position on a chair in the wash closet.

Isaac Jones, sworn—Am police officer, and stationed at Fifth avenue and Wood street; about ten minutes past five was washing off the crossings with officer Brown; was attaching the hose, when I heard a sound like the breaking of glass; asked my partner if he had heard it; he said "yes," and I started across the street to learn the cause; found a window of the banking house open; looked into the room but failed to see anything unusual, and left; about half-past seven the old lady came across the street and said Mr. Mertz was dead; came into the room and found the body in the wash closet.

Joseph S. Cupples, sworn—Am a police officer; entered the banking room in company with the other officers, and discovered the deceased sitting in a reclining position on a chair inside the wash closet; found a revolver lying on the floor at the left side of deceased. [Pistol produced.] That is the pistol I found; the hammer was partly raised, and I lowered it to prevent accident.

T. C. Rhodes, M. D., sworn—Am a practicing physician; made a post mortem examination on the body of the deceased; found a bullet wound in the left breast, about an inch and a half below the left nipple, and half an inch to the left. The ball passed between the seventh and eighth ribs, and passed through the left ventricle of the heart; did not follow the course of the ball further; instantaneous death resulted from the wound.

THE VERDICT.

After the above testimony was elicited, the jury returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death from the effects of a wound from a pistol shot fired by his own hand.

THE BODY.

At the conclusion of the inquest the body was taken in charge by the friends, and prepared for burial. It was encased in a neat metallic coffin, and removed to his late residence in Allegheny, from where the funeral will take place, due notice of which will appear in the morning papers.

Mr. Mertz was a native of one of the Rhenish provinces, and came to this country at the age of fourteen years. At the time of his death he was about thirty years of age. On his arrival in this city he obtained a situation in the wholesale boot and shoe store of James Robb, where he remained over a year. He commenced his as assistant teller in the First National Bank, of this city. After a short apprenticeship there he was offered the position of teller in the Second National Bank, which he filled acceptably to his employer and with credit to himself until the spring of 1863, when he embarked in business for himself, with Captain W. J. Kountz as partner, under the firm name of Kountz & Mertz. This partnership continued until the latter part of 1865, when it was dissolved, Mr. Kountz withdrawing from the firm. Since that time Mr. Mertz conducted the business himself, and until very recently, he has been considered a very successful financier.

A Noble Charity.

One of the grandest features of the spirit of the present age, is the universal effort put forth by individual Christian associations and churches to ameliorate the condition of the poor and penniless, and to care for their temporal as well as their spiritual wants. In this respect no city in the Union occupies a prouder position than our own Pittsburgh. In the darkest hour of the Great Conflict, Pittsburgh citizens and Pittsburgh ladies, were as "familiar as household words" in every home and hamlet of the Union. For Hospitals, Homes for the Friendless, Homes for the Destitute, Widows' Homes, Orphans' Homes, and many other noble charities, Pittsburgh is, and ever has been preeminent, and many of her citizens are known over the land as the purest of philanthropists.

Standing high among all the noble charities, is one that takes a peculiar hold on our sympathies—the Home for Aged Women. A little over a year ago a number of noble Christian ladies feeling that something might be done for the many poor and friendless aged women in our midst, conceived the idea of erecting a "Home" for them. No sooner had they conceived the idea than they began with an unwavering devotion to collect funds and perfect arrangement to accomplish this great work, and erect a monument of Christian philanthrophy that would be an honor and an ornament to our city.

James Kelly, Esq., of Wilkinsburg, with his usual great liberality, hearing of the intention of the ladies, donated five acres of his beautiful grounds as a site for the proposed building. The ladies at once proceeded to solicit subscriptions from many of our citizens, and were met in a liberal spirit. So great has been the success of the undertaking, that at the present time the building is nearing completion. It is built of brick in the most substantial manner, and its accommodations are ample.

The monetary outlay has been greater than expected and the ladies who have the matter in charge, in order to the entire completion of their work, have been necessitated to appeal once more to the public. For this purpose they have concluded to hold a GRAND FAIR at City Hall, commencing the first week in September. Contributions of money or articles for disposal at the Fair will be thankfully received.

We hope that our citizens will contribute with a liberal hand, and place at the disposal of these noble ladies ample means for the completion of this great charity which shall be a lasting honor to our city, and which shall cheer the departing hours of many weary and broken hearts.

Up the River.

Burglars are operating in Brownsville. Several houses have been entered during the past week. They have thus far received nothing of value.

The hull of a large towboat, second in size only to the celebrated Ajax, has been launched from the Brownsville boat yard. A new boat will be completed as soon as possible and put into service in the Ohio and Mississippi trade. It is owned by Mr. William Clark.

A canine, afflicted with hydrophobia, formed the excitement of a couple of days in Brownsville. The "dorg" eluded the vigilance of the entire populace, and at last escaped from the town—probably on his way to this city for a "sausage" of the "pisened" sort.

The running of packets above Lock No. 6, in the Monongahela, will be discontinued after Monday, until the Lock is repaired.

Mr. John Williams, of Menallen, near Uniontown, this harvest, with his three sons and a hired man, cut, bound and shocked fifty dozen of wheat in one hour.

During the past week 305 head of cattle, 821 head of sheep and sixteen horses have been shipped on the Connellsville road from Uniontown.

Connellsville takes kindly to secret societies. They have six organizations, comprising an Odd Fellows' Lodge with one hundred and sixty-four members, an Encampment, about the same number, King Solomon Lodge A. Y. M. sixty, Knights of Pythias seventy-one, Temple of Honor about fifty, and Good Templars one hundred and forty. This is about an average of one member of a secret society to every four inhabitants of the town.

They have been enjoying the heat at 120 degrees up at Dawson's, near Connellsville during the past week.

The boiler of the steamer Chieftain exploded a few weeks ago at Greenfield. Sidney Bowman, the fireman, was so severely scalded that he has since died. Legal proceedings have been commenced against the Packet Company for the recovery of ten thousand dollars damages. The Chief Engineer of the Chieftain has also been brought before the United States Inspector. Efforts are being made to have his papers revoked. His case is pending.

A New Plow.

On Thursday we witnessed a trial of the new straight mould board plow, manufactured by our well known plow manufacturers, Hall & Speer, on the farm of A. Wright, in M'Candless township, this county. There were a number of leading farmers, agricultural implement dealers and others interested in improved field machines and implement tools present. It was tested in light sandy loam and clay stubble wet with recent rains, also in heavy sward. In all the trials and tests it made a clean unbroken furrow—cut off entirely by the share, cut with ease to plowman and team without choking or clogging. The dynamometer tests showed one fifth less draft than the best plow brought to compete with it, cutting the same width and depth of furrow, and all joined in saying it did its work better. Mr. Wright on, whose farm it was tried, is an old plow maker and thoroughly conversant with these implements in every form. He is entirely satisfied of its superiority over anything in use—in its simplicity, efficient working, durability, &c. This was the unanimous opinion expressed by the intelligent crowd present, who saw it tried, among whom were the veteran Judge Brown, Messrs. Krider, Wallace, Cunningham and other well-skilled farmers, H. B. Long, the well known implement dealer in the city, Colonel James Verner, of street car notoriety, and other prominent citizens of the city and vicinity.

This plow is so arranged that should any part wear out in usage or break by accident, it can be renewed at a trifling cost by any farmer the least skilled in mechanics. It is destined to an early and successful introduction, and we are pleased to note it as another triumph for Pittsburgh enterprise. Mr. Speer of the firm was present and received many hearty congratulations.

Educate the Girls.

Whatever may be the opinions of parents upon the question of "Women's Rights" in general, one right cannot be gainsaid,—that of education. Every young girl if it be within the power of the parents, should be educated; and the sooner this is commenced the better. If the girl be trained to think and her mind thus developed, the woman will be correspondingly cultivated and independent. With this idea in view it becomes then an important matter to select a good school in which a proper education may be obtained. Happily there are many to choose from. Among these the Day School for Young Ladies under the supervision of Rev. S. M. Glenn, located at No. 29 Ninth street, occupies a high position. Here parents may send their daughters with the assurance that they will be thoroughly educated—unless the pupil desires otherwise. The location is retired, and yet central and convenient. The teachers in each department have been selected with care and are competent instructors, and the instruction in the elementary and higher English, together with the classics, is thorough and perfect. Add to this the unusual advantages in music, painting and French, and a school is formed which is hard to excel.

The Fall term of this institution will commence Monday, September 5, and as the number of pupils is limited, we would advise parents having daughters to educate to call immediately at No. 29 Ninth street and ascertain particulars!

Base Ball.

There will be an interesting match this afternoon, between the Allegheny and Union clubs at Union Park. Game will commence at half-past three o'clock. The accommodations for visitors are so perfect that every attendant can have a full view of the game from a comfortable seat. Special accommodations arranged for ladies.

The second of the series of the match games for the championship, between the Allegheny and Atlantics, will come off at Union Park next Friday afternoon. It promises to be more exciting than the last one.

Run Over.

Thursday evening about nine o'clock James O'Donnell, aged about twelve years, son of Alderman O'Donnell, met with a severe accident. He attempted to cross Penn street in advance of a passing team in front of his father's office, but was knocked down. One of the hind wheels of the barouche passed over his head, injuring him painfully. During the night he was delirious but yesterday had revived and was doing well. No serious consequences are apprehended.

SHOPLIFTING IN ALLEGHENY.

A Female Operator on Federal Street—Her Dealings Among the Dry Goods Stores—How she Came to Grief.

Yesterday morning a woman entered the dry goods store of the late J. M. Carr, No. 118 Federal street, which is now in the hands of administrators. After inquiring the prices of a number of articles she was about leaving without making any purchases, when one of the clerks observed her quietly slipping a piece of silk, valued at twenty-six dollars, beneath her sack. Her egress from the establishment was interrupted until she had given up the plunder, after which she was allowed to depart. Subsequently, the matter was brought to the attention of Chief of Police Clark, who at once set a watch to detect the shoplifter—rightly supposing she had taken more than she had given up. A few hours afterward she was observed coming down Federal street, when Chief Clark and officer Lafferty, who were on the lookout, at once arrested and took her to the lock-up. Once there, she became considerably frightened, but stoutly maintained her innocence of any crime. Her protestations, however, were not heeded, and finding herself in close quarters, she pulled out a large bag, which she had concealed, beneath her dress, and which was found to be filled with dry goods and fancy articles, evidently stolen. A few of the articles were identified by Mr. William Semple, who also recognized the woman as one who had been in his store the previous day three or four times. The fact that she had a few articles from this establishment, led to the conviction that others had been secreted somewhere.

The woman gave her name as Mrs. Anne Daniels, and said she resided at Bridgewater, Pa., near New Brighton, with her husband, who was a pedlar. Upon learning this information the officers proceeded to the Federal street depot, and after a search, discovered in an out of the way part of the depot a small cupboard, which they broke open and found to contain, dry goods, amounting in value to $100. The woman had been seen working about this place, but nothing was thought of the circumstance at the time. The goods were taken to the Mayor's office, where Mr. Semple identified them all as his property.

The woman seemed to be dumbfounded at the evidence against her and had nothing to say. She was kept in the lock-up last night and will have a hearing to-day.

Leetsdale Camp Meeting.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The camp meeting held on the hill near Leetsdale Station, on the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Railway, about thirteen miles below the city, closed on Wednesday evening. This was the third meeting on that ground. In many respects it was considered the best. The order was most excellent. Not the least disturbance or difficulty occurred. It was the subject of remark by both ministers and laymen, who have been in the habit of attending camp meetings for twenty and thirty years, and all united in the opinion that they had never seen a camp meeting which had excelled it in this respect. The farmers in the neighborhood and surrounding country are an excellent class of people; they did all they could to supply the wants of the tent-holders, and make them comfortable. They expressed themselves greatly pleased with the character of the people attending the meeting, and with the preaching and other religious exercises. They were also unanimous in the request that these meetings be continued in future years.

During the three years no serious trouble or difficulty has occurred on this ground. None whatever from the farmers living in the surrounding country. A few drunken roughs from the village caused some little disturbance in the woods outside of the tents, one night of the first year, and some few of another class from the valley have each year annoyed the worshippers by their trifling and scoffing spirit. This last class, from whom better things should have been expected, were guilty of the worst conduct seen on the ground each year. They were the sons and daughters of leading families of another denomination, who claim superior intelligence and superior social position. Yet the trifling, insulting and indecorous conduct of some of these has, each year, required to be publicly rebuked. And in this fact is found the explanation of the false and scurrilous article in one of the city papers. It was written by one of that class to avenge the public rebukes administered to some of his friends and associates.

The ground where the meeting was held, containing 18¾ acres, is the crown of an elevated ridge, covered with a dense growth of forest trees, exceedingly dry and airy, and abundantly supplied with water from four neverfailing springs very convenient. The ground has been purchased for camp meeting purposes, at a cost of $4,000, and $2,000 have been raised to improve it. When cleared of the underbrush, laid out into walks, &c., and suitable buildings erected, it will be, perhaps, the most healthy and beautiful place for a summer resort and for camp meetings, in Western Pennsylvania. The parties who have taken it in hand intend to make it one of the finest in the whole country.

Really Good News.

One of the most painful as well as dangerous and most difficult diseases to cure is that known as the sore throat or Quinsy. It is one which has often baffled the skill of the most experienced physicians, and they as well as sufferers, are ready to return almost any reward for the cure which can be relied upon in every case. Such a medicine seems to have been at last discovered. It is the result of long experimenting and practice by Mr. P. Winter, a resident of this city, who has given the subject especial attention. He has tried innumerable cases with his medicine and never yet failed. At first it was put into practice among his own friends, but gradually as its merits became known, the circle extended until hundreds of our best citizens are ready to testify to its curative properties and excellence for the purpose designed. Mr. Winter is satisfied he has an infallible cure for any case of Quinsy and to test the matter offers $500 to any person bringing him a case he cannot cure, and that quickly. It is no sham or quack medicine. As the offer is an honest one so the medicine has proven to be all that is claimed for it. He is in possession of many certificates from citizens whose characters cannot be impeached, who endorse it fully. They have tried it and know whereof they speak. Those who may be afflicted with sore throat in any of its forms should try a bottle, or consult Mr. Winter. His office is at No. 501 Penn street, where he will be pleased to show his certificates to the incredulous, or to undertake any case brought to him. To the afflicted this is really good news, which the wise will not fail to profit by.

That Mixed Case.

The Mayor rendered a decision yesterday in that mixed case between officer Murphy and George W. Shaw, full reports of which were published some days since. Concerning the case of Shaw vs. Murphy, the Mayor said there was no evidence whatever that the officer had been guilty of the slightest disorderly conduct. He was on duty, had no revolver, and could not have fired the shots, was brought to the place in the regular round of his duty, and had a perfect right to investigate the noise he had heard. Therefore, under the testimony, officer Murphy was honorably acquitted. In the case of Murphy vs. Shaw, the Mayor stated that the evidence was ample that Shaw had committed an unprovoked and cowardly outrage upon the officer, and that without giving him a moment's warning or a moment's explanation. All the witnesses examined corroborated officer Murphy's testimony. Therefore Shaw would be required to pay a fine of fifty dollars, and in default to go for sixty days to the work house. That the decision is a just one we think will scarcely be denied even by Shaw himself.

Information Respecting Deceased Soldiers.

In pursuance of a request from the Quartermaster General of the United States army, an order has been issued by General John A. Logan, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, for the collection by the different posts of all necessary information toward the preparation of a record of the graves of deceased Union soldiers interred in civil cemeteries throughout the United States.

The order of General Logan directs each post to appoint a committee to prepare a record of the graves of all the Union soldiers and sailors, who served during the late war, and whose remains have been interred in the civil cemeteries in its vicinity. The record is to give the name of the cemetery, its location, the full name of the soldier or sailor, date of his enlistment, company, regiment or ship in which he served, date of death, if killed in battle, or if death occurred in hospital, or if from wounds or diseases contracted in the service the cause from which the same occurred.

Official Order.

In consequence of the scarcity of water in some of the upper wards, the Mayor desires to call attention of citizens to the following extract from city ordinance relative to wasting water:

"That if any person shall occasion willful waste of water, or shall suffer it to flow unnecessarily from his or their dwellings or premises, or use the same except for necessary household purposes, unless specially agreed for, he or she or they so offending, shall forfeit and pay for every such offence, the sum of not less than five, and not exceeding fifty dollars."

Henceforth the conditions of the above requirements will be strictly enforced.

JARED M. BRUSH, Mayor.

Neutral Ground.

Holtzheimer has proclaimed neutrality. Germans and Frenchmen may assemble at the Continental, Fifth avenue, and enjoy the benefits of the establishment without fear that the rights of either will be interfered with. Strict neutrality will be enforced. All may partake of the bountiful supply of delicacies with which the tables at the Continental are loaded. Call in at any hour of the day and you may be accomodated. Tables always spread for patrons. A rich and rare dinner to-day; all kinds of meats, pastry, confectionery, delicacies and substantials in unlimited supply. The Continental is below the Post Office, Fifth avenue.

A Good House.

Mr. W. G. Dunseath, Fifth avenue, below the Opera House, is a practical jeweler and optician. He gives his personal supervision over all the departments of his business, especially that relative to the repairing of watches, clocks, &c., so that a good job is always guaranteed. Outside of this his stock of watches and jewelry will be found full and complete as any house in the city, while the prices are in proportion. We know of no place in the city we can more cordially recommend. Anything in his line you may need Dunseath will supply in the most satisfactory manner.

Explosive Oil.

But a few days ago we recorded the sad event of the burning to death of a young lady in Allegheny city from explosive oil. We are glad to announce to our readers that W. W. McClelland & Co., of this city, are selling what is called the "Head Light Oil," the same in quality as burned in locomotive head lights. This oil is perfectly safe, and can be handled by children without danger. The firm is also manufacturers and dealers in Lubricating, Lard, Linseed and Carbon Oils, which they offer to the trade. For particulars see their card on first page.

In Bankruptcy.

In the United States Court yesterday morning, Judge McCandless presiding, an application was made by H. P. Laird, Esq., counsel for the Moshannon Land and Lumber Company, upon whose petition Messrs. Zeigler, Baker & Co., of Greensburg, were declared bankrupts, for an injunction restraining other creditors holding executions against the bankrupts from selling any property belonging to the firm. The injunction was granted.

In the case of John P. Brush, bankrupt, of Mercer county, a special order was issued dismissing the specifications of objections to the bankrupt's discharge, rescinding the order for a trial by jury. It was also ordered for the information of the court upon the question of discharge, that the Register proceed with the examination of the bankrupt at his office in Franklin, on September 6, at 2 o'clock P. M., to be continued from day to day until the same is closed, and report to court.

For Sale.

A beautiful country site and 40 desirable building lots near Woods Run at Auction.

Will be sold on the premises on Wednesday, August 17th at 2 o'clock, a beautiful country site containing 3 acres and 98 perches partly surrounded by oak and hickory trees, original growth, part in a high state of cultivation, a nice orchard and a never failing spring of water, also 40 desirable building lots, 25 by 100 feet and upwards. This property is situated in M'Clure township, on the Brighton and Woods Run road, within a mile of Pleasant Valley street cars which will soon be running to Pittsburgh Post Office, and about five minutes walk of Woods Run Station on P. F. W. & C. R. R. where 15 daily trains pass to and from the city. Plans at A. LEGGATES, 159 Federal St., Allegheny.

METZ, Aug. 12, 1870.

To the Empress: Louis has received his new trunk from Liebler's, No. 104 Wood street. He was delighted with it, but said little. A division of baggage smashers attacked the trunks in the baggage depot here. There was but a brief resistance. Louis and I were in the front, where the trunks were demolished all about us. Louis keeps a piece of one of the demolished trunks, which he picked up. The baggage smashers wept at his tranquility. We lost nothing, because of the superiority of Liebler's trunks, with which we were furnished.

GENERALITIES.

THE California rainy season has began.

GENERAL KEYES is raising grapes in California.

ALBANY now comes forward and demands free baths.

GRANT, the Richmond man who killed Pollard, is with Bryant's minstrels.

RUMOR says Bret Harte is about to emigrate from California to New York.

THE great attraction at Baxter springs, Kansas, is a herd of 20,000 Texan cattle grazing there.

AT Marietta, Michigan, there is a plum orchard forty acres in extent, and containing 6,000 trees

THE hotels of Marquette have turned hundreds of would-be guests away this year for lack of accommodation.

THE last heat story is that apples on the trees near Bridgewater, Mass., were baked upon the trees last week by the sun.

SAN FRANCISCO is to have its most glorious dramatic season the coming winter. Edwin Booth, Joseph Jefferson and "Sam" Chanfrau are all going there.

ENGLISH sparrows having become comparatively domesticated, Irish swallows are now emigrating. One New York gentleman has bought over $2,000 worth of them.

THE paragraph concerning Mr. Siebeneck of the Chronicle in yesterday's GENERALITIES should have been credited to the Put-in-Bay correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, and not to the Bedford Enquirer.

MR. MARTIN HOOVER, a gentleman living near the Ritche county coal mines, in Virginia, killed a rattlesnake a short time since six feet four inches long, and about twelve inches in circumference. It had seventeen rattles.

AN Indianapolis German had occasion recently to bury a large wife, and squabbled with the sexton about the fee. "Dat ish not a big grave," said the disconsolate husband. "Not a big grave?" indignantly responded the sexton, "why, d—n it, that's a cellar!"

"OLD HAYS," the famous New York detective, of the last generation, left several sons, one of whom inherited much of his father's talent. As he is a wealthy banker, however, he seldom employs it, but he is now at work on the mystery of the Nathan murder.

A SAD accident occurred at Ferry Point, Virginia, on Sunday. It appears that Mr. Elias Whitley was attending to his horses, when one of them became unmanageable, and he, in trying to pacify him, received a kick in his breast, which caused his death immediately.

THE mineral springs at St. Louis, Michigan, are said to be the most effective in the country and of course wonderful stories are told of them, one of which is that a man 72 years of age, after drinking the waters for two weeks, has begun to cut an entire new set of teeth.

A COMPANY of Boston capitalists have recently purchased a quarry of verd-antique marble in Deer Isle, Mt. Desert, Me. The marble is of a very dark color, handsomely variegated, and works easily. The quarry has a surface of one hundred and fifty acres, and the purchasers think they have a "big thing" in it.

CURTIS SMITH, of Versailles, was accidentally killed last Saturday, in that place. He met a young friend, Mr. Richard Ward, who had a pistol cane in his hand, when Curtis playfully seized and attempted to take it away from him, when it exploded and sent a ball through Smith's right lung, producing death in a few minutes.

THE is a sea beach at Manchester, near Cape Ann, Mass., which is remarkable for its "musical tone." As you step briskly over it a distinct and somewhat clear note is heard, which seems to be upon the key of C of the treble scale. By scraping or shuffling the foot over the sand the tone can be prolonged. Miller mentions a similar phenomenon on a beach upon the coast of Scotland.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT.—At a called meeting of the stockholders of the Cherry Run and Pittsburgh Petroleum Company of Pittsburgh, held at their office, No. 59 Fourth avenue, Pittsburgh, June 20, 1870, an act of assembly to enlarge the corporate powers of said company, approved May 3, 1870, was unanimously accepted.

In pursuance of the provisions of said act the Board of Directors have levied an assessment of (6) six cents per share on the capital stock, to be paid to the Treasurer prior to August 31, 1870. A credit of (3) three cents per share will be allowed to all who paid on the former assessment. The proceeds of this assessment are to be applied to the payments of debts due by the company. Under authority of the act before noted, all stock on which the assessment may remain unpaid, will be forfeited and sold at public auction. It will, therefore, be to the advantage of the stockholders to pay the assessment and thereby retain their interest in the property.

PROPOSALS.

NOTICE
TO CONTRACTORS
FOR
Wood Pavement.

SEALED PROPOSALS

Will be received by the Commissioners of Penn avenue until AUGUST 20, 1870, for Paving with Wood Pavement that portion of Penn avenue, from St. Marys avenue to the city line, about three and a half miles in length and thirty-six (36) feet in width—a portion (about half a mile) being sixty (60) feet in width.

Proposals will state the kind of Pavement with full description, and must be accompanied by a model showing its construction. Also, describe fully all the materials used, all of which must be of the best quality.

The Contractor will be required to furnish the gravel foundation four inches in depth of good gravel.

The Wood used will be required to be effectually preserved by saturation with some compound containing sufficient carbolic acid. Specimens of the Wood, preserved by the proposed process, must accompany the bids; also, a statement of the quantity per day that can be treated.

Proposals for the Pavement, without the preservative treatment, and for the preservation, will be received separately or together.

The prices named in the proposals must include all royalties or patentees charges, and the Contractor will be required to furnish a sufficient bond of indemnity to guarantee the City of Pittsburgh against any and all claims for such patent charges.

Payment will be made in monthly estimates, in cash or bonds, as may be agreed, twenty (20) per cent. of each estimate being retained until the contract is completed and the work accepted by the Commissioners.

Bidders will state what proportion, if any, of their pay will be received in Penn avenue bonds of the City of Pittsburgh, which are seven (7) per cent. bonds, free from taxation.

The Commissioners reserve the right to accept such bids as appear to be most advantageous, or to reject all bids. Proposals will be indorsed "To the Commissioners of Penn avenue," "Proposals for Paving," and addressed to Dr. J. I. MARCHAND, President, Wilkins Postoffice, Allegheny County, Pa.

By order of the Board of Commissioners.

WM. P. SHINN, Secretary.
